Celebration In Athens Follows Klisura's Fall

Greek Experts Regard Capture As Most Important Victory Of War

MAIN BASTION OF ITALIAN DEFENSE

Fall Of Klisura Result Of 26 Days Of Continuous Operations

By A. E. ANGELOPOULOS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ATHENS, Jan. 10.—Sending thousands of jubilant Athenians into flag-bedecked streets in another victory celebration, the Greek high command today officially announced capture of Klisura, the most important fortified Italian stronghold on the Graeco-Albanian front.

Premier Gen. John Metakasis was almost mobbed when he appeared on the steps of military headquarters in Athens to announce officially that Klisura, main bastion of the Italian defense line, had given way after 26 days of continuous operations.

Greatest Achievement
Greek experts hailed the capture as the greatest military achievement of the war.

Many Italian troops were able to retreat north of the Tepeleni-Klisura line, but they were closely followed by Greek forces and latest reports indicated the flight was deteriorating into a disorderly rout. Large numbers of prisoners were taken together with huge quantities of war materials.

Reports from the coastal sector said the Greeks were advancing steadily and had reached the heights overlooking Valona. Advancing units were reported close to the outskirts of the port. Italian reinforcements were said to be hastily fortifying the Berat region in preparation for possible evacuation of Valona.

Meanwhile, the advance in central Albania continued. The Greeks obtained an unbreakable superiority, it was said, by seizure of the country's most important mountain peaks.

Klisura was taken in the last of a series of bloody bayonet charges.

Indications are that the court house lawn that was planted last spring will be one of the most attractive in the district during the coming summer. Even now when everything else that grows is so drab and unattractive, this lawn seems to stand out.

Work is still progressing on Scotland Lane, Union township, where a WPA project is now in progress to re-surface the street. The street will be re-surfaced between West Washington street extension and the Youngstown road.

Chicago City Employees' Strike Lasted 5 Hours

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—The wheels of municipal government rolled along in normal fashion once again in Chicago today following settlement of a hectic five-hour strike of city workers which for a time threatened serious consequences.

Chief sufferers during the strike were city officials, including Mayor Edward J. Kelly, for among the upwards of 3,000 union strikers were city hall servicemen. During the strike the city hall had neither light nor heat and only a minimum of elevator service.

Other inconveniences were interruption of the traffic lighting system in the loop, almost complete stoppage of garbage collections, and the delaying of a few boats seeking entrance to or egress from the Chicago and Calumet rivers, which handle a volume of lake traffic.

Settlement of the controversy was reached in a four-hour conference in Mayor Kelly's unheated office, between city officials and heads of the 13 AFL unions which had ordered the strike in protest against proposed wage cuts. The strike began at 8 a. m. and ended shortly before 2 p. m. The agreement provided for a six man board of arbitration to settle further wage disputes, and the following wage reductions for about 2,500 employees: four per cent for salaries of $3,500 to $3,549; seven per cent for salaries of $3,550 to $4,000; 10 per cent for salaries of $4,009 and up.

Report German Troop Movements Are Being Continued In Balkans

(International News Service)
LONDON, Jan. 10.—Reports of continued German troop movements and concentrations in the Balkans reached London today, but still lacked official verification.

The London Daily Express reported from Bucharest that most German troops have been withdrawn from the Danubian delta in Rumania during the past few days and now are believed to be entering Bulgaria along a road skirting the Black sea coast.

Editor's Note: Authoritative quarters in Berlin said they had no knowledge of foreign reports that German troops were entering Bulgaria en route to aid the Italians against Greece.

(Similarly, competent quarters at Sofia flatly denied all rumors that Bulgaria had been "invaded.") But a Reuters (British) dispatch from Ankara, capital of Turkey, said that between 10 and 12 German divisions now have reached Rumania and that this concentration is expected to total 16 divisions by the middle of February.

Reuters also reported that six German divisions are now said to be in position along the Russo-Rumanian frontier. The dispatch added:

"Observers expressed the opinion that additional German troops were sent to Rumania owing to Russo-German tension and also owing to the difficult Rumanian internal situation."

All-Out Program Of Aid To Britain Before Congress

Measure To Be Introduced In Both Senate And House By Leaders

"BLANK CHECK" FOR ROOSEVELT IS AIM

President Seeks Complete Authority To Determine Aid To Britain

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The administration's all-out program of aid to Great Britain, giving President Roosevelt a virtual "blank check" to pour munitions and arms into the embattled country, will be placed before the senate and house today.

Almost immediately after the lend-lease measure is introduced, legislative machinery will be started to bring about early enactment. Inauguration day, Jan. 20, is set by the administration as the goal for passage of the bill.

Reverting to practices in early days of the new deal, it was decided to have the measure introduced in the senate by majority leader Barkley and in the lower chamber by Democratic leader McCormack.

Unlimited Funds
Unlimited appropriations are authorized under the proposal, which was given final approval last night by President Roosevelt at a White House conference with cabinet officers, congressional leaders and defense chiefs.

Congressional leaders say the secretary of war and navy will have a large part in deciding munitions and arms to be supplied to Great Britain but Mr. Roosevelt will be the actual head of the vast program which will entail expenditures placed as high as $7,000,000,000; consideration of creating a huge corporation, to be administered by Secretary of Commerce Jesse W. Jones, to handle the lend-lease plan has been abandoned in favor of making the chief executive the directing leader, it was learned.

United States To Get Little In Return For Lease-Lend Program

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Use of additional British bases and assurances that America's judgment will be considered when a final peace settlement is discussed was seen in authoritative quarters today as the most the American people can hope for in return for the billions of dollars worth of supplies President Roosevelt has promised Great Britain under the lend-lease plan.

Apart from these possible benefits, whatever America gives the embattled democracies must be considered merely as a contribution toward the strengthening of this country's own security through defeat of the axis powers, these sources say.

British Units Push Forward Across Desert

Tighten Stranglehold On Italian Base At Tobruk By New Moves

ADVANCE OVER 125 MILES INTO LIBYA

Three More Italian Bases Are Threatened By New British Drives

By DESMOND TIGHE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY BEFORE TOBRUK, Jan. 10.—Three more Italian bases—Derna, Bomba and Bengazi—were threatened by swiftly advancing Anglo-Australian spearheads today as Britain's imperial forces in Libya tightened their stranglehold on the Italian stronghold at Tobruk.

Armored British units pushed forward across the desert more than 40 miles beyond Tobruk, threatening the other Fascist coastal bases with the same eventual fate that already has befallen Bardia and now is being wrought against encircled Tobruk.

One of the most striking of the latest blitz-like British coups was capture of El Gazala airport, west of beleaguered Tobruk, where 35 Italian planes were found to have been rendered "unserviceable" as a result of R.A.F. attacks.

Greek Forces Take Klisura At Bayonet Point

Charge Italian Stronghold In Central Albania After Artillery Barrage

MAJOR SUCCESSES IN GREEK DRIVE

Greeks Will Now Be Able To Launch Drive Towards Valona And Sea

By A. E. ANGELOPOULOS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ATHENS, Jan. 10.—Charging with bayonets after artillery barrages prepared the way, Greek forces today occupied Klisura, important Italian stronghold on the central Albanian front.

Klisura's occupation marked another major success in the Greek drive to clear the Fascists from the lower half of Albania.

The city was one of the major Fascist defense strongholds in the central area, and its fall means that the Greeks will now be able to launch a new phase of their campaign to turn the Italian arms and drive them toward Valona and the sea.

The Greek high command previously announced advances in which hundreds of Italian soldiers were captured and strategic new heights occupied at bayonet point.

Much Booty Taken
Large quantities of Fascist war material also were seized in the latest Hellenic forays, it was stated.

A high command communique stated: "During local engagements important heights were occupied at bayonet point."

"About 200 prisoners fell into our hands as well as much material, including twenty 81-millimeter mortars."

German Bombers Attack British Cities

Raids Renewed Against Britain

Manchester, Southampton, Liverpool And Portsmouth Hit Says Berlin

WEATHER IS AID TO BOMB ATTACKS

(International News Service)
BERLIN, Jan. 10.—German bombers attacked Manchester, Southampton, Liverpool and Portsmouth in widespread raids against Britain last night, the German high command announced today.

In addition, damaging night raids were carried out against military objectives in southern England, the Midlands and the seaport of Bristol, it was stated.

Berlin authorities declared, R. A. F. planes dropped incendiary and explosive bombs on the Ruhr city of Gelsenkirchen, hitting the Eckhardt school and several apartment houses.

Germany Bombed

British planes also bombed Wesel and surrounding towns and attacked the city of Berkhelm, where four explosive bombs hit the Bethlehem convent, officials said.

Aided by favorable weather, it was stated, the German bombers easily found their targets and carried out effective bombing operations, causing numerous fires which were visible for great distances.

At the same time, it was announced that a group of R. A. F. bombers attempted to raid an industrial district in western Germany during the night but that intensive anti-aircraft fire and balloon barrages turned aside most of the British raiders to their objectives.

Church Sodality Installs Officers

New Officers Take Charge And Members Welcomed At St. Vitus Sodality Meeting

Approximately 60 members witnessed the installation of officers on Thursday evening at the Our Lady's Sodality meeting of St. Vitus church, held in the convent hall. Rev. Fr. Nicholas DeMita conducted the installation.

Miss Mary Chill had charge, and prayers were in charge of Sister Hildegard. The Sodality song was sung, with Sister Florence at the piano. Reports were heard from secretary, Rose Chill, and treasurer, Bernice Dellavon.

Thirty-one new members were welcomed, and afterwards, Father DeMita, the guest, addressed the assembly and spoke on the welfare of the Sodality. A social function is being planned to take place next month, for the benefit of the church Sodality. Committees will be chosen. The next meeting is on February 6.

noticed on the highway the other day, that a father, loaded down with groceries, with his small son not over four years old, warmly bundled, stood out in the cold at the edge of the road near Edenburg, and kept going through the motions of "getting a ride" on home from some passer-by.

Last night was a good one for sled riding, and many boys and girls took advantage of the fact, using the hilly streets in the city.

Downtown streets were exceptionally slippery this morning, the ice and snow of Thursday having melted making slush which froze during the night.

Organization and training of a Boy Scout Emergency Service Corps here is a worthwhile venture. The corps will be ready for any last minute calls to aid in drownings, fires, floods, finding lost persons, and the like. They will cooperate with city, county and state officials.

Traffic in and out of New Wilmington was held up for some time Thursday afternoon when a trailer truck jack-knifed on Furnace Hill. The trailer had to be unloaded before it could be put back into position and traffic resumed.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Schetrom, of 1310 East Brook street, have an elaborate "Little Village" holiday display at their residence. They will welcome any interested at their home, during the balance of the week, as it will be taken down on Monday.

It is amazing how children dash across streets with fast-moving traffic, with so few accidents. A few evenings ago in the 600 block of East Washington street, four children, hand-in-hand, waited for an opportunity to cross. The "little mother," about six years of age (the others about three) looked carefully up and down, and suddenly, like a flock of chickens, they swept across gleefully to the other side, while lookers-on held their breath.

Community Center
The Grange hall, one of the busiest centers of community activity in the county, stood along the road which leads off the New Castle-Ellwood City highway at the Rose farm. It was not visible from the main highway.

Grange leaders today had placed no exact loss on the building, but they said "part of the loss" is covered by insurance.

Mrs. John King, one of the Grange members, expressed the feelings of her fellow members at the loss of their hall today. She said:

"For a year we've been fixing this up and fixing that, and we've modernized it a good bit. It's a great loss."

Close to 200 spectators saw the flames eat through the Grange hall and watched Shenango volunteers, commanded by Chief Merle Mayberry, battle to save the Reno home.

Marion Reno, affiliated with a South Side store, told firemen last night that twice last week he had dreamed that his home burned down. He had even told his own fire insurance agent about it and a check of his policies had been made.

Master Henry Welhouse, this afternoon announced that East New Castle Grange "may rebuild," but said that "no official action of any kind has been taken." He placed last night's loss at between $5,000 and $6,000. The entire grange regalia with other valuable contents was lost.

Attacks On Britain
While the British attacks on Germany were in progress the Nazi carried out hit and run assaults all over the British Isles.

The British air ministry communique on the night attacks said there was considerable enemy activity during the night and that bombs were dropped on widely separated districts of England and Wales, including the Merseyside district (around Liverpool), northwestern England and the Midlands.

London also was attacked and in the capital, the air ministry stated, a number of houses and shops were damaged.

It added that casualties nowhere were reported heavy.

The all-clear signal in London, ending the city's 435th alarm of the war, sounded at 2:30 a. m. Shortly before this an entire block of London flats was hit, causing some casualties.

Lull Is Broken
The new German night attacks broke a three-night lull and apparently were in retaliation for the terrific R. A. F. assaults of the night before that left huge flames and great piles of wreckage in Wilhelmshaven and Exman and at the seaplane base at Borkum Island.

Outlying districts of London were sharply bombed during the night and it happened that about a dozen other cities and towns also felt the fury of the German raiders.

ALL-OUT PROGRAM OF AID TO BRITAIN BEFORE CONGRESS

are necessary to carry out the program, U. S. manufacturers will continue to fill huge orders until they are granted, it was explained.

To Pilot Measure
Rep. Bloom (D) N. Y., chairman of the house foreign affairs committee and Sen. George (D) Ga., chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, are charged with the task of piloting the measure through congress.

First action is expected in the house, with Bloom wiring absent members of his committee to return to chart a course for the battle.

"I will start hearings as soon as possible, if the committee approves, probably on Monday," Bloom said. "I am sure that the bill will pass the house by more than a three to one vote."

The hearings, which will first call Secretary of State Hull, or his legal adviser, Green H. Hackworth, may be cut short in order to rush a vote, according to Bloom.

A battle is forecast, however, by non-interventionists in both the senate and house. Sens. Wheeler (D) Mont., leader of the non-interventionists, Vandenberg (R) Mich., and Nye (R) N. D., are expected to lead the senate fight.

"I shall vote against it and speak against it," said Rep. Short (D) Mo., who may lead the house fight. "It is a dangerous bill."

Historic debate may result in the senate, with the non-interventionists claiming that it is a long step toward war and supporters asserting that the U. S. must lead in safeguarding world democratic government.

Provisions Of Bill

Washington, Jan. 10.—The bill to carry out President Roosevelt's aid-to-Britain program was made public today, carrying provisions in it not only to lend or lease ships, planes and guns to England, but to throw American harbors open to repair British war vessels as well.

Major sections of the bill provide: 1. That the president may from time to time, if he deems it in the interest of national defense, authorize the use of the navy, or any other government department to manufacture war munitions for Britain in U. S. arsenals and plants.

2. To sell, transfer, exchange, lease, lend or otherwise dispose of defense materials.

3. To "repeal, repeal, or otherwise to place in good working order" any defense article for Britain.

4. To communicate any information about any war materials or war machine loaned or leased to Britain.

5. Authority for the president to "authorize for export any defense article."

The bill also includes the provision that the president should have the powers "notwithstanding provisions of a previous law," this would waive the Johnson and neutrality acts essential to the lease-lend program is concerned.

The bill does not mention any beneficiary government by name. It merely grants the president authority to lend or lease war materials "to any government" whose battles he holds essential to our own national defense.

Thus, the language of the bill is broad enough not only to carry out the lease-lend program to Britain, but will also allow the United States to aid Greece and China, or any other government that might be drawn into the vortex of war.

UNITED STATES TO GET LITTLE IN RETURN FOR LEASE-LEND PROGRAM

repaid any substantial part of the supplies this country may give Great Britain, China and Greece to enable continuance of their war against the axis is an illusion, it was frankly stated.

There had been some hope that the British after the war might be persuaded to compensate the United States by turning over tin, rubber and other raw materials, but it is now realized that there is little possibility of Britain actually doing so, regardless of what promises may be made in the immediate future to encourage congress to approve the plan.

The amount of supplies the United States will be called upon to provide as the "arsenal of the democracies" before Britain succeeds in defeating Germany and Italy is likely to be so colossal in the opinion of well-informed circles that it would be impossible for Britain to compensate this country for them without permanently dislocating its own economic system.

Furthermore, authoritative quarters concede that if Britain wins the war, she will feel she has saved civilization and there must be no question of any international debt burden to interfere with the economic rehabilitation of the world.

Little Compensation

Therefore, it is felt the most the U. S. can hope for in the way of compensation for what it is about to give is the use of additional British bases, should they be needed for American defense, and assurances that America's voice will be heard in determining a policy of lasting peace when this war is over.

Unless congress insists on certain conditions in the lease-lend plan, it is considered highly probable that the United States will even find it difficult to get Britain to agree to a sane policy of peace if she wins the war some sources say.

There is a growing conviction in high quarters that the British people will feel bitter about the horror of this war that they will not be disposed to agree to any peace settlement that gives sympathetic consideration to the German people.

Unless congress insists on assurances in advance from the British government in this connection, and the United States exercises great firmness in the peace discussions, it is felt America's latest contribution to the future welfare of mankind may prove as fruitless as the 1917-18 contribution.

advance resulted in capture of new positions and villages of strategic importance in Albania despite strong Italian resistance.

He declared the prisoners captured included seven Italian officers and 270 men, as well as much war equipment.

Counter Attacks Beaten
It was also revealed that Italian counter-attacks on the Moscopolis sector were beaten back with heavy losses to the Fascists, while further north beyond Pogradee the Greeks advancing against Elbasan fought heavy artillery duels with entrenched Fascist forces.

It appeared that the weather and heavy snows were preventing large-scale troop movements but the Italian counter-attacks on the Moscopolis front were understood to have been carried out with the assistance of German tanks sent to aid the Fascists in the defense of Elbasan.

That Italian stronghold is considered of utmost importance, since it is the key point for the defense of Tirana, the Albanian capital.

In all cases, it was asserted, the Fascist counter-thrusts were broken up and hurled back by the Greeks, who then followed up these successes with bayonet charges that pushed the Italians from some of their positions.

BRITISH UNITS PUSH FORWARD ACROSS DESERT

much as 125 miles into Libya, only a month after launching the offensive that threw the Fascists out of Egypt.

The British advance, supported by R.A.F. assaults that have blasted six large Italian sea and air bases in their newest raids, apparently were aimed at achieving the quickest possible collapse of all Italian resistance in the eastern half of Libya.

In addition to isolating Tobruk, the British advance endangered a large Italian force at the Sabab oasis, 175 miles southeast of Tobruk. It was believed this force was making hasty preparations to retreat before it is completely out-flanked.

Possibility that this withdrawal already is underway was hinted by an announcement that British planes "considerably damaged" several Italian truck convoys northwest of the oasis.

Tobruk itself is now an "island" encircled by rapidly increasing British forces. The Italian garrison, apparently numbering about 20,000

Fascist troops, has been cut off from all means of retreat, supplies or reinforcements, and R.A.F. formations have been pounding it incessantly.

Lost Two Platoons
LONDON, Jan. 10.—Italian forces in Africa lost two platoons during successful British patrol operations and skirmishes in the Kassala area, it was stated authoritatively today.

The British suffered no losses whatever, it was claimed.

Yesterday a British announcement said empire troops had captured an Italian post northeast of Kassala in Italian Eritrea, about 15 miles from the Sudanese frontier.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

DON'T FRET IF CHILD IS LATE TALKING

"My dear Dr. Myers: Thank you first for the many helpful articles you have written, for the Parents' Prayer which hangs framed in my bedroom, for the kind letter you wrote in answer to my frantic one when my six-year-old son stuttered so pitifully. Incidentally he is now ten and has no trouble with his speech at all.

"In a recent article you offered a chart to test roughly a baby's mentality. Would you please send me one? Our baby is two years and three months old and while he seems very bright he talks almost not at all. He says a few words of course, but says 'baaa' in a very sweet voice in an inflection to imitate the word we wish him to repeat most of the time.

"Have you written any books which would help in such a case? If so please name them and do send the chart. I am anxious to justify our faith in this merry-eyed little fellow we all love so."

Don't Urge Child
It certainly was a pleasure to learn that the little boy recovered entirely from stuttering. This mother was very gracious to tell me so. I sent her the chart for checking roughly her baby's degree of development.

I entreated this mother not to urge her child to talk, since doing so will only tend to slow up his speech. Notice she writes that this child says a few words. Very well. His speech will probably develop normally in good time. A certain child I knew very well spoke but little until after he was about two and one-half when his speech took a spurt. His parents were much worried, of course. Nevertheless, that baby graduated later at the head of his class in college and still later earned his Ph.D. degree from a large university, recently winning distinction in a special field of science. Incidentally he was read to a great deal from early babyhood.

I urged this mother to read to her baby and enclosed a selected list of books from which to read to him. I suggested to her that she attract other children to her home to play with this child and go with him to their homes; and, if possible, to place him in a nursery school, certainly in the nursery department of a Sunday school.

Be Patient With Slow Walking Too
Some mothers write me about the child who is slow at beginning to walk. One mother of a baby 15 months old is worried because he won't walk except as he holds to her hand. Let her go on holding his hand when he desires her. But her trouble is that she urges him to walk and the more she urges the less sure he is that he can walk. Nor is 15 months unduly late for walking, she should know.

Normally the child who has had freedom to pull himself up by a support to a standing position, to creep, or to climb stairs will walk in his own good time if let alone. Some over-weight children are slow at walking. Then, if the child has not had ample home food his legs might not be strong enough for walking. It would be well, as I wrote this mother, to have her child and his diet carefully checked by a pediatrician.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. How may one prevent or reduce stubbornness and cultivate cooperation in the young child?
A. Make only negative commands and few of them. Make positive suggestions, but not positive commands. Request of this child the things you wish him to do and let him choose to comply or not as he likes. Command him to quit or void what you wish him not to do and give him instant punishment if he doesn't obey this command promptly.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles
Far from being given the horse laugh as antiquated holdovers from the days of earlier warfare, the horse and the mule are finding themselves in numbers at least playing a very important role in the defense program. In the past five months, the United States Army has purchased more than twelve thousand horses and mules to keep pace with the expanding military personnel. This month the Army procurement division is going on a genuine shopping spree and will purchase seven thousand additional mounts.

Meanwhile, we hope Maud the mule doesn't discover that while the Army is paying $160 for the horses, it is paying an average of $180 for good mules. That would only add to the general mulliness of the breed.

Even in the age of streamlined, motorized armies, Dobbin and Maud gamely hold their own. Time marches on, but so do they.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 4:53. Sun rises tomorrow 7:22.

There are over 12 plumbers in New Castle. Do you know where they are located and the names of them?

Some of the new members of the present congress have never been in Washington before. They haven't seen anything yet.

It is easier to live under marching events than under marching soldiers.

We have always felt kindly toward men whose purposes were more patriotic than political.

"Life is full of complications," writes The Man From Missouri. "Over in my old home state they were holding a college dance. A co-ed was having a wonderful time until she discovered she had her formal gown on backwards."

The "Arsenal of Democracy" means that the United States will be transformed into a huge munition factory to furnish the British with war materials.

New Castle's most henpecked man was aroused during the night by his wife who said, "If you are talking in your sleep." "Well, I've got to talk some time, haven't I?"

The following was recently heard in a home:
"Are you an angel, daddy?"
"Well—er, not exactly. Why do you ask, sonny?"
"Well, I heard mamma say that she's going to clip your wings."

There are people who are not much on looks, but they try to make up for it in dress. And some do a very good job at it.

Life is pretty much what we make it. Anybody can be nobody.

A lot of people who insist on living their lives their own way often do it behind iron bars or with a guard near them to tell them what to do and how to do it.

The bandaged dorky was explaining his plight to an interested brother.

"I sho' is worried," he said. "This morning I see been bit by a dog, and I hear tell that whatever a dog that bites you got, you gets." "Guess that am de truth." "Yassah, I sho am worried. Dat dog just had eleven pups."

A guilty man often says, "I object to having my case tried in the newspapers."

Question: Please give me instructions on giving an informal buffet supper.—Mary.

Answer: Invitations for such a function are telephoned, written, or visiting cards or sent in the form of short notes. Stacks of plates and groups of cups, saucers, knives, forks and napkins, should be attractively arranged on the table, which should be decorated with a floral centerpiece and with candles, flanking the flowers. Your coffee service, as well as dishes of cold foods, such as cold cakes, should be set on the table before the arrival of your guests.

Hot foods, if any, should not be served until the festivities are about to begin.

Guests will help themselves and if the hostess has thoughtfully placed about the rooms small tables to which they can carry their plates and thus eat their food in comfort, they will be spared the difficulty of trying to balance dishes on their laps.

Question: If an invitation to a tea reads "From 3:30 to 6" how long should I remain?—Lydia.

Answer: You may arrive at any time between 3:30 to 6 o'clock. You may stay as long as you like, but no less than 20 minutes. You may remain an hour or more if there is dancing.

"The children of a nation are its dearest, its most estimable treasure. Not its coal, not its commerce, not its gold, not its armies, not its history, not even its freedom, but just its children. For its children are its hope, its children are its future. Its children are the trustees of its prosperity. Its children will be men and women in those dark and perplexing days which seem to lie before another generation when we are mouldering in our forgotten graves."

A woman with her hair combed up always looks as if she were going some place, either to the opera or the shower bath—depending on the woman.

"Boy, can you direct me to the State Savings Bank?" asked a kindly old lady nearing her eighties.

Boy: "Yes, ma'am . . . for fifty cents."

Old Lady: "My! Isn't that awfully high pay, my son?"

Boy: "No . . . not for a bank director, ma'am!"

A loyal employee is always looked upon favorably by his employer.

Perhaps the chap who said this wasn't invited to a certain party. "There are not enough swell parties in town to keep the moths out of dress suits."

There are many veterans hospitals in this country and they are treating over 200,000 men wounded in World War. That's something to think about. The men in them are not having a good time either.

A farmer had come to the university town to see his son and was shown to a chemistry building. An instructor met him at the door.

"You can't come in now," said the instructor. "The class is engaged in an interesting experiment."

"What is this experiment?" asked the farmer.

"We are trying to discover a universal solvent," replied the instructor, impressively.

"What is a universal solvent?" "That's something that will dissolve everything."

The farmer thought a moment. "After you get it," he said finally, "what are you going to keep it in?"

Two men were comparing their filing systems the other day—the inside pocket of their coats. Take a look at your own; maybe we can get up a contest to see who has the biggest stack of the most useless junk a man can carry around in his inside pocket.

There are many different kinds of liars. One kind is the man who says he doesn't seek praise and doesn't worry if he is criticised.

HAD OWN TROUBLE
The little boy was very naughty in school, the teacher felt that the discipline of the whole room was being undermined by his actions. She wrote a note to his mother.

"Your son, Abie, is the brightest boy in my room, but the most mischievous. What shall I do?" "Do what you please," came the reply. "I'm having my own troubles with his father."

Heard in a doctor's office: "Would you rather be buried or cremated?" "I prefer neither."

Congress Frowns At Hopkins Leaving
Is Subject Of Conversation Off Floor
Closeness To President Causes Jealousy

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—President Roosevelt's assignment of Harry L. Hopkins to visit war-time London as his personal representative or spokesman or investigator in some other not at all clearly defined capacity unmistakably was a move upon which many senators and representatives on Capitol Hill in Washington look with decided disfavor. They're not making formal speeches about it, but it's the subject of plenty of conversation off the two legislative floors. It's to be overheard from Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats, probably amounting, all told, to a sizable majority of congress membership.

Harry's adverse critics don't dislike him personally, but he's so close to the president that I think perhaps they're a bit jealous of him. As a tremendously active New Dealer, he's held responsible by the "antis" for a big share in instigating various New Deal policies that they've objected to throughout the current administration. They found fault with his judgment as Works Progress administrator and as secretary of commerce. Ever since F. D.'s facetious reference to "Tommy the Cork" they've called Harry "Harry the Hop". That designation is fairly representative of their estimate of him.

First they say that he isn't a suitable man to trust on a mission of great responsibility, like the one the president is sending him on, to London. Having said this, they immediately take it back, agreeing that the complete irresponsibility of it is what they really object to: if a duly named and confirmed ambassador bungles his case, called to account for it, but Harry's responsible only to the White House, and not, effectively, even to that.

What About Salary?
Indeed, a question's raised as to his pay. The executive mansion's version is that he's to be unsalaried; to receive only his expenses, plus a per diem allowance. Yes, rejoin congressional critics, but what's a per diem allowance except a salary under a different name. Their suggestion is that the general accounting office should have a voice relative to the legality of the per diem item, and maybe relative to expenses, too, considering that the whole affair is absolutely ungovernmental.

The trip likewise is compared with the tour made by Colonel E. M. House, in President Wilson's behalf, before our entrance into the last World war, and it's significantly too, considering that we have practically no own participation in conflict No. 1.

When this new Seventy-Seventh congress convenes it was freely queried:

Will it get on more harmoniously with the president than the last one did?

Congressional comment on the Hopkins selection hints at a bad send-off for harmony.

Congress appears to have been decidedly impressed by the widespread editorial emphasis laid by our newspapers upon the fact that we have practically the only legislative body left on earth today that functions independently of executive dictation and that it surely had better stand pat for continued recognition of its rights.

Consequently our lawmakers, on an average, emphatically are sent to sleep, and that they believe in neither executive nor legislative authority. And a good many of them pretty outspokenly feel that the dispatch of an unofficial White House agent to Britain strongly suggests something of the sort.

Anybody judge from their talk, Harry Hopkins wasn't the ideal individual to pick for the mission, not from congress standpoint. He's most likely the president's best friend, but too many congressmen deem him overly erratic to trust—honest and, in his way, intelligent, but a freak.

He's afraid he'll misrepresent us. If he's an investigator they're afraid the information he brings back will be colored by his own peculiar prejudices. Furthermore, they don't want any envoy sent abroad upon whom they haven't passed. They 100 per cent weren't consulted as to Harry and it makes 'em sore.

What Noted People Say

NEW YORK—Former Budget Director Lewis W. Douglas sees American domination of the air coupled with sea power as vital for preservation of democracy.

"The air power of America and her friends added to the sea power of America and her friends should—and will—provide that environment of world order and world freedom in which this continent has been developed and this country become great."

CHICAGO—James S. Kemper, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, believes war for the U. S. would mean bankruptcy plus dictatorship.

"We should keep constantly in mind that federal bankruptcy might force us—as it has so many nations—into a type of government of every true American abhor."

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—Edsel Ford defends industry's prosecution of the national defense program.

"The national defense program is moving along as fast as it is possible to move it. People do not realize the colossal job it is to prepare and tool up for the making of national defense needs."

ALBANY, N. Y.—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman demands fullest state aid for the defense program.

The Hopkins Mystery

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. A GREAT deal of the publicity has attended the departure for England of Mr. Harry Hopkins as special representative of the President. An air of mystery has been thrown around his trip. Its confidential nature has been emphasized by various newspaper writers, and there has been almost a fever of speculation among them as to what Mr. Hopkins is supposed to do.

OBVIOUSLY neither by experience nor capacity qualified to discuss military or financial problems, it has taxed the ingenuity of the professional interpreters of public affairs to find the answer. Some of these seem to have centered upon the idea that he is to discover and report to the President upon the "real war aims" of the British. It is his mission, they assert, to find out whether the British intend to call the war off after they have driven Hitler across the Channel and put an end to air raids, as well as the invasion threat, or whether it is their purpose to continue the fight until Hitler has been beaten on the Continent.

REALISTS in the State Department do not subscribe to this view. Far from it. Neither does anyone else informed as to the situation abroad, with a first-hand knowledge of Mr. Hopkins and of his relations with Mr. Roosevelt. In their opinion, Mr. Hopkins' trip is unimportant, his "mission" is a myth, and nothing that he will say in England or that will be said to him will affect either our policy or that of the British. In brief, those in best position to judge accept Mr. Roosevelt's own press conference explanation of the Hopkins trip when he laughingly said: "Oh, he's just going over to say how-do-to some old friends of mine." The fact is, there is some excuse for sending Mr. Hopkins over for a two-week trip, but not much. It is true that we have no ambassador in London and the British have no ambassador here. It is also true that, because of the possibility of leaks, the transatlantic telephone is not now often used by White House or State Department.

BUT the British Ambassador—Lord Halifax—is about to arrive, and the President has said he will send in the name of his ambassador to England this week. In the meantime, in Mr. Herschel V. Johnson, the American charge in London, and Mr. Neville Butler, the British charge here, the two countries are represented by extremely competent and experienced men. This situation should not long continue, and will not, while it does the interests of neither nation will suffer and there is no risk of every development worth while not being swiftly and intelligently communicated. It is conceivable that Mr. Hopkins as a "contact man" for a brief period may bring back to the President some impressions that will be interesting, but that they will be important or that he is entrusted with anything that could be dignified by the name of "mission" is not seriously entertained by posted persons. They scoff at the idea. The truth is, they think that Mr. Hopkins' trip is due to one of those Roosevelt impulses upon which the President so often acts.

HE is very fond of Mr. Hopkins, who since his resignation as Secretary.

WARNING

Thinking to be clever,
Late to school, I said:
"Better late than never!"
Teacher (dead):
Gentle, kind and gracious,
Thoughtful and sedate,
Answered me audaciously:
"Better never late!"

Strange it seems this morning
I should hear him still
Speak that gentle warning
Against a common ill.
Of his lessons many
At that early date,
Best of all and any,
"Better never late!"

Curious the mind is,
How it works and what
Trifle so designed is
To shape another's lot!
Though my hair is graying
At time's furious rate,
Still I hear him saying:
"Better never late!"

Hints On Etiquette

One of the best ways to keep your friends is to be on time when you have appointments with them. Occasionally, of course, everyone has a legitimate excuse for being late. Generally speaking, however, whether you are going out for the evening with friends, going to their home for dinner, or going on a long automobile trip with them, be ready at the time agreed on.

Predicts Great Battle On Sea During Winter

Ability Of Commerce To Fight Off Raiders May Decide Course Of War

NAVAL OBSERVERS ANALYSE OUTLOOK

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The biggest battle of this winter will be staged not in the Mediterranean, the Near East, or on the shores of Britain, but in the Atlantic Ocean.

This was the view held here today by many competent naval observers, both British and neutral, as they analysed the admittedly heavy depredations of German and Italian submarine and surface raiders on British and Allied mercantile shipping in the North Atlantic in recent weeks.

On the outcome of this battle depend the course and the length of the war in which Britain is engaged against the Axis powers. It was felt, unless Britain can throttle the surface and undersea commerce raiders which today roam across her chief supply line, a line so vital it might properly be termed her commercial jugular vein, the brilliant stand now being made by her aviators in the air above Britain, by her sailors in the Mediterranean, and her soldiers in the Near East may conceivably be reckoned as without avail, it was believed.

British Mastery Gone

The mastery over the German U-boats which the British Navy seemed to possess six months ago is today gone; German undersea vessels, operating from French coastal bases more westerly than the British, have the whole Atlantic for their grim playground. And the British, with more seas to watch than any other world power today, are desperately short of small fast patrol vessels of the destroyer class. Naval men are agreed that the British Navy today has to face a task vaster than any with which it has been confronted since Britain became the first sea power of the world; the task is the eradication or at least the diminution of the enemy menace in the gray wastes of the Atlantic, before next Spring.

In the course of the next few weeks, the American people may witness another appeal from Britain to release more American overage destroyers to the British Navy. And the British, believing that American opinion has now been educated to the point where it will believe that Britain is America's front line, feel that a plea for a further fifty old destroyers will not go unanswered.

Simultaneously, the American people probably will witness a campaign for the leasing of Irish bases by the United States Government, to overcome the grievous disability now suffered by the British Navy in having to fuel and equip at ports several hundred miles from the actual Atlantic.

Reasons For Step

Many ingenious and ingenious reasons are being advanced in certain circles here for such a step. Similarly, there are numerous ideas afoot as to how it could be operated.

One suggestion is that the United States could send over American merchantmen, loaded down with supplies and escorted by the U. S. Navy, to these bases, thus keeping an essential British supply line open and freeing British ships for convoy work elsewhere.

The argument for such a step runs approximately as follows: America gave Britain destroyers because she knows that British sea supremacy is essential to her own security. Britain has leased bases to the United States in return. In the same spirit the United States might offer Britain convoy forces and bases in Eire, bases which it is certain Eire will never lease direct to Britain.

Managed Money Expert Will Be Speaker Tuesday

What Will Happen To One's Money Will Be Forecast
By Sir Charles Webb

Sir Charles Morgan Webb, who will be the guest speaker of the Executive's club at its dinner meeting in The Castleton Tuesday evening, with the ladies as guests, will deal with a subject close to the heart of everyone at the present time, namely, what is going to happen to his money in the future.

Sir Charles has been credited with being the world's greatest authority on the history of managed money, and his subject will be of as much importance to his audience as the political changes which are likely to result from the present war in Europe.

After a distinguished career of civil service in India, Sir Charles was the proprietor of the Finchley Press in London from 1925 to 1930. Since that time he has been president of the London and Suburban Press. He is the author of a number of noted works on money and kindred subjects, which have greatly influenced British economic thought in the last six years.

President William J. Caldwell states that although there have been a number of new additions to the club this year, there is still room for a few more.

Dice may now be frowned upon by cultured people, but several hundred years ago even prelates of the church rolled dice with kings.

January Class At High School To Present Play

"Sorority House" To Be Staged By Seniors On Friday Of Next Week

The senior high school usually has some special activity as the center of student attention. Just now the coming event for the whole school and the friends of the January graduates is the January class play. This event of the commencement season is always quite as much a social occasion as a financial venture and in preparation for it the cast has been hard at work since long before Christmas.

The date for the public performance is Friday of next week, a much later time than is customary. The competition for a place on the school calendar among the various student interests this year resulted in a necessary postponement. This has, however, given the dramatics coach, Miss Clara Harstuf, opportunity for the attention to details of production in addition to general dramatic effect, for which her plays are well known in the community.

The three-act modern comedy in which the carefully selected cast will interpret a phase of college campus life is "Sorority House" by Mary Coyle Chase. It was first given public production at the University Civic Theatre in the University of Denver, Denver, Colo. Since the 22 parts for girls and seven for men are mostly concerned with freshmen in college, the play is especially well adapted to high school production. The play might well have been entitled "Rush Week: Behind the Scenes". Tragedy and comedy, nobility and meanness, hilarity and despair, are skillfully interwoven with genuine, old-fashioned romance in a drama that will permit the department of dramatics to add one more branch to its accumulating laurels.

Report 351 New Industries Have Located In State

(HARRISBURG, Jan. 10.—Industrial migration from Pennsylvania has virtually ceased and 351 new industries have been established in the state, the Department of Commerce reported today.

The first review of the newest of the state's departments covered the period between the department's establishment on June 1, 1939 and October 31, 1940.

Thirty-eight industries have moved into Pennsylvania from other states since January 1, 1939. Secretary of Commerce Richard P. Brown disclosed. Twenty-one of these became new Pennsylvania branches of out-of-state industries and 292 entirely new operations.

The state's new industries and new branch plants came from New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Puerto Rico and located in approximately 50 Pennsylvania communities. More than 30,000 persons are employed by them.

Exceed $200,000,000

New industrial and utility construction started or scheduled in Pennsylvania during 1939 was said to exceed $200,000,000, a figure larger than that for any other state. In the first half of 1940, new plant construction increased in Pennsylvania but decreased in every other important northeastern industrial state, in comparison with the same period of 1939, the department's report stated.

Employment in Pennsylvania increased six per cent, from June 1, 1939 to May 31, 1940, compared to a 3.3 per cent. increase in the nation as a whole, the report continued, quoting the U. S. Bureau of Labor statistics. Payrolls have been increasing even more rapidly than the number of jobs, it was added.

Brown reported that the tourist trade has become Pennsylvania's third largest business, exceeded only by steel and textiles. Its volume for Pennsylvania in 1940 was estimated at $350,000,000 or more.

"Total expenditures by tourists in Pennsylvania now are three times as much as in Florida," said Brown, according to comparisons made by the U. S. Travel Bureau of the U. S. Department of the Interior.

out this New Deal fanatic, whose indiscreet remarks has made him notorious, would have been chosen.

AS to "discovering the British war aims," certainly there is no necessity for sending anyone to England for that. Mr. Winston Churchill made those clear a good many weeks ago when he told the country that the war would continue not only until England was victorious but until the Nazi menace had been crushed and the European peoples now under the heel of the conqueror were able once more to live like freemen without fear. He made this characteristically clear again a few days ago when, on a trip of inspection of London devastation, a woman rushed up to him and asked, "When will the war be over?" "When," grimly replied the Prime Minister, "we have beaten them."

IT isn't possible to be plainer than that. It isn't possible to doubt that that is the British war aim. It isn't possible to doubt it, because it is too well known that Mr. Churchill is neither a bluffer nor a boaster. When he says a thing, he means it. So far as he can mold British policy—and he is its moldier—England will not be ready to quit when she has saved herself. So far as Mr. Churchill is concerned—and he speaks for the British nation—this is a fight to the finish. Mr. Hopkins may confirm that by talking to British leaders; but it will not be a discovery.

Italian Air Force Claims Success

Reports Attack Made On British Naval Formation In Mediterranean

(International News Service)

ROME, Jan. 10.—The Italian air force scored major victories upon a British naval formation in the Mediterranean and on the fortified island of Malta, the high command announced today.

Despite spirited defense by air-planes and anti-aircraft artillery, the Italian planes hit a British battleship directly in the western Mediterranean, it was said. At Malta, five airplanes were hit on the ground while two steamers and an anti-aircraft battery were damaged.

The communique reported artillery duels and destruction of British mobilized detachments in the Tobruk area of Libya while Italian aircraft bombed the British-held port of Solun.

Italian warships shelled enemy coastal positions in Greece, it was said, while local land activity took place in the interior.

TEXAS FOREST LAND

Of the 167,935,000 acres comprising the land area of Texas, about one-fifth is covered with forest growth.

The land bird with the longest migration route, is probably the nighthawk, which migrates north to Yukon and south to Argentina 7,000 miles away. This distance however, is surpassed by some waterbirds and shorebirds many of which travel more than 8,000 miles when migrating.

A call for volunteers is being sent out to the women of the district who can sew. Each week, the ladies of the ward gather in the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church and make garments which will be distributed by the American Red Cross.

Next Wednesday at 1:30 o'clock, another sewing bee will be held in the Presbyterian church. Any person who desires to aid in this good deed should go to the church at that time.

Thymus Hormones Assist Aged Ones

Have Proven Of Assistance In Relieving Conditions Of Paget's Disease

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—Hormones of the thymus gland, important for normal growth of children, paradoxically can be used to relieve Paget's disease, an ailment of old age, according to a Philadelphia research expert.

Dr. Leonard G. Rowntree, director of the Philadelphia Institute for Medical Research, told of giving injections of thymus extract to 16 victims of Paget's disease—a disorder in which the bones become deformed and chronic fatigue, headaches and sometimes deafness develop.

Of this experimental group, Dr. Rowntree said, two had complete and permanent relief of symptoms, nine had complete relief for three to six months, two were partially aided for long periods, and three got no relief at all.

Congress Is Facing Toughest Job Of Years As Babson Views It

(By ROGER W. BABSON)

Copyright—1941—Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.

BABSON PARK, Fla., Jan. 10.—Just a week ago today the 77th Congress settled into harness. They have in this current session the toughest job to face in many years.

BABSON

Things are moving fast. Straightforward thinking and no monkey business is the order of the day. A great responsibility for the course of action our country will take rests upon the shoulders of the law makers who voted into office last November 6. If Congress measures up to our expectations, our affairs are in good hands. If its members succumb to pressure groups and lack the courage of independence, we will find ourselves in a bad way.

The Problems of Congress

Neutrality or war have set the stage for our current Congress. Whether we or they like it, this is the dominating scene. "Aid to Britain—short of war" is the topic which blankets the question of neutrality, repeal, or circumvention of the Johnson Act. Congress wants and deserves facts from the President and Secretary Hull before it makes binding commitments one way or another. Congress must know just how desperate is England's situation. Congress must know the financial resources of Great Britain in this country and other countries.

Investigating committees of both the Senate and the House can do much to bring into the open the truth regarding the position in which our country finds itself today. With honest, though small, and influential groups of men and women already vigorously championing both sides of the war or neutrality question, the average man and woman is entitled to at least a simple explanation or interpretation of the grave problems which today face our nation.

Congressional Morale

Collectively, Congress is a most sensitive body. Its feelings are easily hurt and it is easily swayed by outside influences. I have always thought that, left to itself, any session of Congress would handle the affairs of this country in a truly great fashion. This would mean, however, that Congress would have to be handled like a jury. Left alone to hear the evidence and discuss the facts, they would do a swell job. Cut Congress off from mail, telegrams, telephones, the radio and the lobbies and you would have an honest, efficient, and considerate governing body.

The average congressman has today a terrible inferiority complex. Individually, and collectively, they say, "What's the use?" It will be a miracle—and I still believe in miracles—if this 77th Congress does not go down into history as a defeatist group of the worst kind. With few exceptions, congressmen have little money of their own. While they talk optimistically in public about "Saving Democracy," they believe, confidentially, that capitalism is all done for this generation.

Reckless Spending

After all Congress reflects, to a very large extent, the concern of its constituents, the fears of the voters who put them into office. The same questions regarding the size of our national debt, national income and inflation scare them as much as they do the average man in the street. For years I have been advocating proper pensions for congressmen. As the representatives of the wealthiest people in the world, they ought, after certain years of service, to be paid a sufficient sum of money to enable them to live comfortably in event of defeat at their next election and to enable them to speak and to vote with the courage that financial independence gives.

But would our people vote such an arrangement? I am afraid not. Hence, if Congress itself becomes frightened, we shall have only ourselves to blame. I believe that most congressmen secretly feel that we might as well distribute our money over here now as to have it become valueless later. Thus, as you read of huge new appropriations, consider carefully if they are to be used with the idea in mind of saving England. It is conceivable that Congress may interpret their acts during the current session as a final means of getting more houses, automobiles and refrigerators for their own constituents.

What Can We Do?

If the 1941 Congress turns out a defeatist group, we shall be in a tough spot. I say this regardless of my recent optimistic forecast for the current year. Congress is very apt to neither repeal present legislation (and there is plenty of it) nor to enact needed good regulations. Congress is more likely now to think of the immediate needs of the voters "back home" than it is of their children and grandchildren. I fear no more New Deal legislation in 1941, but I do fear wasteful appropriations made for selfish political purposes under the false guise of defense.

Do not let Congress "sell out" democracy and all the good in it for a mere mess of pottage. Individually I have faith in our congressmen but, collectively, I am fearful of their lack of courage and faith. We, however, have elected this 77th Congress and we must back it up. But it would do no harm and might do some good if each of us wrote our representatives in Washington, expressed our faith, and asked for a show of courage and farsightedness in these perplexing and serious times.

Will Fingerprint State Employees Of Mental Institutions

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Jan. 10.—More than 4000 employees in 10 of the commonwealth's mental institutions will be fingerprinted by State Motor police to "insure the good character" of hospital attendants.

Included in the plan are state hospitals at Allentown, Danville, Fairview, Harrisburg, Norristown, Philadelphia, Torrancia, Warren, Wernersville and the Western State Psychiatric hospital.

James C. Smith, deputy secretary of welfare, indicated that the fingerprint system would be extended to all medical, surgical, feeble-minded and epileptic hospitals. At the present time, only employees of correctional and penal institutions are fingerprinted.

Italian-American Club Dinner Sunday

Members of the Italian and American Citizen club will hold their annual dinner on Sunday, January 12, in the Casa Savoia hall, South Mill street.

Those in charge are: Tony Martucci, Frank DiBianco, Antonio Capolino, and Pete Nativio.
President D. Prioletti announced that the dinner will be served by Mrs. Concetta Leonardo and Mrs. Clotilda Ross.

"LIFETIME WATCH"
John Davis, Bowling Green, Ky., examining some heirlooms, found an old watch. He wound and set it. It's been running accurately ever since. The watch belonged to his grandfather and is at least 75 years old.

Route Marking Standards Will Be Revised During Winter

EXPECT WORK TO BE DONE BY JULY

HARRISBURG, Jan. 10.—The Department of Highways recently announced the adoption of a revised type of traffic route marking standards in its aim to facilitate driving in Pennsylvania.

These new standards have been placed in effect and the changes to make existing markers comply with the new standards will be made during the winter months. It is expected that the entire system will be revised by July.

Several new types of markings have been adopted which will aid motorists in finding their way through the commonwealth. One of these aids is an increase in the number of signs given a motorist at a point where a traffic route turns. The new standards will provide an advance warning sign at some distance before the turning point in the route, which will consist of a standard "Route Marker" and a letter "R" or "L" immediately below the mark to designate whether the route turns to the right or to the left. At the intersection where the route makes the actual turn, there will be another sign which will include the route marker proper and a right arrow, or a left arrow to indicate that the route turns to the right or to the left. Immediately around the corner, either to the right or left, as the case may be, on the right side of the intersection will be an additional confirmatory marker on the road into which the main route has turned.

Advance warning notices of turns in U. S. routes will include an "R" or "L" on a small "shield" immediately below the U. S. route marker. Similar advance warning notices for Pennsylvania routes will include an "R" or "L" on a small "Keystone" immediately below the Pennsylvania route marker.

At junction points where additional routes intersect, a special sign has been designed to indicate that the route intersected may proceed straight ahead and to the right, or may proceed straight ahead and to the left. In such cases, the junction information sign will be supplemented by a combination arrow pointing vertical and to the right, or vertical and to the left as the case may require.

Traffic route markers are to be placed at a standard height, which in cities, boroughs, first-class townships and where parking is prevalent in rural areas is eight feet from the center of the marker to the ground line. In other rural areas the markers will be three feet, six inches above the crown of the pavement.

Markers will all be installed in a consistent manner, with the lowest numbered U. S. route marker on top, followed by other U. S. route markers in numerical sequence. These will then be followed by the Pennsylvania markers in the same order.

In built-up areas route markers will be placed every other block where practicable, and in rural areas where there are no intersecting hard surfaced roads they will be placed at intervals of not greater than five miles. In any event, the necessary confirmatory marker will always be placed on the far right side of an intersection.

Three Attendants Are Under Arrest

Four-way Probe Being Made At Philadelphia State Hospital

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—With three attendants at Philadelphia State Hospital under arrest, a four-way investigation may show, police said today, that a score of helpless mental patients died as a result of brutal handling by guards.

Charged with homicide were Thomas P. Ryan, 39, asserted dishonorably discharged ex-sailor who lived in the hospital, and Russell Brough, 25, former middleweight boxer, of Rockledge, Daniel McElhorne, 24, also of Rockledge, was accused of perjury and being an accessory.

Confessions signed by the men, detectives said, brought to light slayings "more horrible than the Holmesburg prison steam chamber deaths in August, 1938." Ironically, Brough is a nephew of Alfred W. Brough, former Holmesburg guard acquitted in the "bake oven" deaths of four prisoners.

Although police said deaths of six patients at the institution, formerly known as Byberry, are under investigation, the defendants are accused specifically only in the fatal beatings of Paul Hollowell, 62, a former policeman, and William Y. Williamson, 69.

Arrests of the trio climaxed a four-day investigation by the state department of welfare, Philadelphia police, county coroner and the district attorney's office. One detective described the mental hospital as a "slaughter house where a score must have died like this at the hands of brutal attendants."

PROBE DEATH OF CLEARFIELD MAN

(International News Service) CLEARFIELD, Pa., Jan. 10.—State police and Clearfield county officials were working together today in the investigation into the death of Guy Grunner, 55, of Olanita, Clearfield county, who was found unconscious in the woods near his home late yesterday. Acting coroner E. S. Erhard said Grunner, "might have fallen" but that that theory was "unlikely." He said also that the man "might have been beaten."

Camouflage Is Advocated As Air Defense

Says Correct Use Of Paint Will "Blackout" Targets To Enemy Raiders

EXPERT TELLS OF PROGRESS

By DON FRISHMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—What is a nation's best defense against an air raid?

Today, the answer is the fighter plane. Tomorrow, science hopes it will be a coat of paint.

J. E. Holbrook, executive of The Paraffine Companies, Inc., who is an authority on the art of paint camouflage, told International News Service, the story of its progress and its possibilities.

In a not-too-distant future he indicated, invading air raiders might find that from the air, all of this nation is a series of cow-pastures, marshes, forests and deserts—a country apparently without docks, without industries, without fortifications.

If this hope is realized, air raiders will have to "chance" their shots—bomb every square foot of land before they can be sure of a direct hit.

Cities Chameleon As Example

To indicate the possibilities Holbrook mentioned the chameleon. It conceals itself against a green, brown or gray background by applying limited powers given it by nature. Yet, Holbrook points out science has made available to mankind an unlimited number of pigments and colors with which to work.

Other camouflage have their bases established by nature. Man caught up the idea quickly. The savage smudges his face and body to break up the aspect of familiar human features. And modern man is well ahead of his forebears. In the recent Russo-Finnish war, the Finn soldiers, who costumed themselves in white became semi-invisible against the snow.

Camouflage during World War I was largely copied from the insect and animal world. Camofleurs studied to "break up outline" by smearing irregular areas of paint on guns, trucks, ships and buildings. This served to make the object inconspicuous, when viewed from afar. Also, it was difficult to measure the distance to such an object through use of a modern range finder, which must be adjusted until side-by-side images match.

Conditions Aided Camouflage

War conditions contributed to the effectiveness of this type of camouflage Holbrook explained. An image confused by broken lines and indefinite colorations is nearly impossible to "match" through the sights of a range finder that is set on an unsteady ship's deck, or wheeling around in the air aboard a warship.

With the end of World War I, science found itself on the threshold of a great art—true camouflage, depending on light and color. In the past two decades, research into this subject has continued in hundreds of laboratories. Already it is possible to paint a group of buildings to imitate surrounding ground or shrubbery.

Unfortunately advances in science were not limited to protective devices. Aggressive devices kept pace. Light filters were originated, for example. These filters will immediately unmask the painted object, because the filter will turn the chlorophyll green of vegetation to a reddish tinge, while the green paint will continue to appear green or perhaps gray, through the device.

Spectrophotometer Makes Bow

Protective science met the challenge of aggressive science with the spectrophotometer. This instrument broke up colors into their component parts. These color values, recorded on photographic film made possible the checking analysis of the light reflected from vegetable substance, from paint coatings from earth surfaces and from bodies of water.

Use of the spectrophotometer posed a new problem and demanded a new solution. Holbrook explained that vegetation changes seasonally. Consequently a building that was perfectly camouflaged against lush spring vegetation stood out like a fly in the soup, when summer came. Variations also occur daily from changes of light at morning, noon and evening.

Concealment of whole cities, however, is difficult. Cities that are marked out by surrounding mountains or well-outlined harbors permit raiders to take their bearings. Lacking these give-aways, the city always can be located approximately by solar observation of longitude and latitude—and camouflage is not expected to extend to the sun.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

HARRISBURG, Jan. 10.—No sooner had the new biennial session of the legislature opened than both sides tried to wash their hands of that ticklish problem known as new taxation. . . . The Democrats said it was the responsibility of the Republicans. . . . This brought a quick comeback from one of the G.O.P. leaders, former House Speaker Ellwood J. Turner, Delaware, who issued a statement pointing out that under the constitution all taxation measures are the responsibility of the house. . . . And the house, he added, is now controlled by the Democrats.

Thus the political fortunes of war have brought a change in the attitude of the two political parties. . . . At the last session the Democrats were quick to forecast that new taxes would be necessary at the 1941 session. . . . In fact, they were needed at the 1939 session, they maintained. . . . Former Senate Majority Leader G. Mason Owlett, Tioga, agreed new taxes might be necessary at the 1941 assembly. . . . Now, if either side is still convinced that new or increased levies are necessary, they are not so quick to make their views public. . . . New taxes are never popular.

David P. Reese, Jr., Harrisburg member of the state house of representatives, received an unexpected shock when he took his oath of office. . . . As he removed his right hand from the Bible after the oath was administered, he noticed that the book was opened at the 23rd chapter of Second Samuel, the first verse of which reads: "Now these be the last words of David." . . . It was a little disconcerting, "admitted Reese, "but fortunately I am not superstitious."

Legislators of the 134th general assembly left the capitol after the first day with a $600 check in their pockets. . . . The check represented one-fifth of their pay for the biennium. . . . Four Allegheny county members, who hold other public positions also, said they would accept pay for just one job, either by returning local pay for every day they were absent at Harrisburg or by returning state remuneration.

Aging Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, made a big hit with the new house when he appeared on the rostrum to address the members. . . . Mack did so at the invitation of Rep. Elmer Kilroy, Philadelphia, speaker of the house, whose father pitched against Mack more than half a century ago. . . . Mack told the legislators that his appearance before them made him nervous. . . . "Why should I be afraid, however?" he asked. "Those Yankees aren't here." . . . Democratic National Chairman Edward J. Flynn, another guest speaker, sagely warned the legislators that "the love and feasting lasts only the first day." . . . He is a former member of the New York legislature.

AIR CORPS SEEKS GHOST TOWN FOR BOMBING PRACTICE

(International News Service) SALT LAKE CITY.—If you have a ghost town and would like to dispose of it in a hurry, contact Major D. W. Goodrich, who is commanding officer of the Salt Lake City army air corps detachment.

Feeling the need for bombing practice, the army air corps is in quest of realistic targets. They say it's all right to paint a battleship on the ground, but the army flyers don't work up as much enthusiasm when they are bombing a painted target as when they can blast away at the real McCoy and see the boards fly.

The only qualification the ghost town has to meet is that it be uninhabited and off the main highway so Sunday drivers won't stop to see the fun.

On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

BABY TEETH
Too many parents look on their children's baby teeth as quite unimportant, almost, in fact, like the temporary teeth the dentist makes for you before he puts that permanent plate in. Well, if you treat your baby's teeth like that, you are just making it a little more certain that he will, early in life, be having a full upper and lower made for him at the dentist's.

Nothing could be more foolish than the attitude that the child's first teeth are of no consequence, and that if they do fall out, the second teeth will be along soon anyway. That may have been the old-fashioned idea, but it's a very wrong and dangerous idea.

Modern dentistry has discovered that those baby teeth are really the pathfinders for the permanent teeth. But even if they didn't have this important role to play in the development of the mouth and jaws, there would still be another good reason why they shouldn't be neglected.

If a small child is allowed to develop a mouthful of bad teeth, it means his permanent ones come through the gums into the veritable hot house of germs and decay. It's like putting a newborn baby into a room where another child has just died of a dangerous infectious disease.

I suppose nearly everyone today realizes that if you let your teeth go bad, your health is endangered by the germs that those sick teeth pour into your system. The same thing happens with a small child whose baby teeth are neglected and permitted to decay.

Another careless belief is that with so many teeth in the mouth, the loss of two or three is of no importance. Let me impress on you parents, that your child needs every tooth that nature put in his head. Each tooth is a different shape because it has a different work to do in the business of chewing food. The front teeth cut like scissors; cuspids tear the food, molars are the grinders.

Mothers who keep a close watch on their children's mouths, shouldn't worry, if when the child is five years or so, gaps begin to appear between the teeth. This is the perfect natural sign that the jaw is growing. In fact, if the spaces weren't there then there would be cause for worry, for if the spaces aren't wide enough, there will be crowding when the permanent teeth push their way through. When this happens, there is great danger that the teeth will come in crooked.

Foster Day To Be Celebrated

Four Commemorative Exercises Are Scheduled For Monday, January 13

(Special To The News)
PITTSBURGH, Jan. 10.—Four commemorative exercises will be held on Monday, January 13, in connection with the 14th annual Stephen Foster day in Pittsburgh.

Students of the University of Pittsburgh will have a special concert hour from 12:30 to 1:30 in the Foster Memorial. Public school children will make their annual pilgrimage to the Stephen Foster Memorial on the Pitt campus where they will sing Foster songs in the afternoon. At the evening program John Tasker Howard of New York City, biographer of Foster, will be principal speaker. Fletcher Hodges, Jr., will give his report as curator of the Foster collection; Mrs. H. Alan Floyd, president of Tuesday Musical club, will bring greetings, and Chancellor John G. Bowman will preside. The musical program will feature the Foster Hall quartet of Indianapolis and the university orchestra ensemble.

Hopkins Confers With British Prime Minister

Will Talk To Other Leaders

President Roosevelt's Embassy Gathering Facts In London Conferences

HOPKINS IN FIRST LONDON BOMBING

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Harry L. Hopkins, President Roosevelt's special emissary to London, conferred with Prime Minister Winston Churchill today, plunging into his fact-finding task less than 24 hours after arriving in London from the United States.

Hopkins also talked with Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, renewing an acquaintance formed when Eden was in Washington in 1938.

Before the day is over, Hopkins said, he expects to confer at length with Lord Halifax, British ambassador to Washington, who is scheduled to leave London soon for his new post.

To Receive Correspondents
Hopkins said he plans to receive British and American newspaper correspondents separately this afternoon and added hopefully that he hoped to be able to prowl for a time around the bombed areas of London.

Hopkins declined an invitation from the management of his hotel to sleep in a deep air raid shelter. Instead he remained in his bedroom during the night, apparently undisturbed by last night's attack and anti-aircraft gun fire.

After arising early, he had his first morning breakfast in his bedroom.

British Impressed
Immediately after that we went to work, British authorities confessed they were tremendously impressed by the brisk manner in which Hopkins plunged into the task of "sweeping information."

Lord Halifax, soon to assume his post as ambassador at Washington, has admitted privately that he is out to gain every possible scrap of information about American conditions preparatory to his departure.

Thus the new British envoy will endeavor to obtain from Hopkins the fullest possible insight into President Roosevelt's administration and its views regarding matters Lord Halifax will have to take up when he reaches Washington.

At the same time, authorities said, nothing will be withheld from Hopkins by British leaders from Churchill, down and every facility will be given him to obtain all the information he wants, however secret it may be.

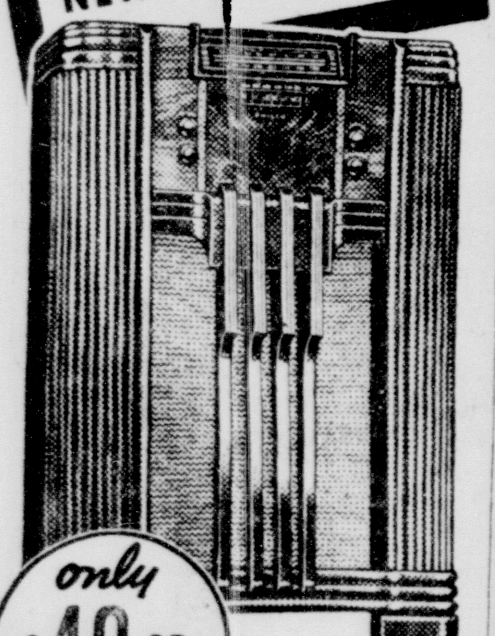

Alexander's Art Work Recognized

Among the artists whose work was recognized at the sixth annual New Year's show at the Butler Art Institute, in Youngstown, O., is Fred Alexander, of Monroe street. Three of his water colors were accepted for the display and of these three, one, "Evening on Mill Street," received second, honorable mention and was purchased by the gallery to be made a part of the permanent display.

Mr. Alexander is a resident of Monroe street and has shown unusual detail for water color medium. His subjects for the most part are local and industrial street scenes. He has had one-man shows in the Bessmer Gallery, Pittsburgh, and Westminster College library. One of his water colors hangs in the Buhl Planetarium, Pittsburgh and three in the Carnegie Library, McKeesport.

Elmer Stephens, director of art for the Pittsburgh Schools selected from Mr. Alexander's work the fifteen best water colors of the year in the Pennsylvania Art Project.

"Only the beginning of a cancer admits of a cure."

Celsus, the physician, said this 2,000 years ago.

The prognosis of this tragic disease has not changed since then.

Cancer, 25 years ago, ranked 7th as cause of death.

Today, it is second on the list as cause of death.

Cancer, a degenerative disease, attacks the middle-aged and aged.

The triumphs in preventive medicine of children makes more aged.

Nowadays more people live to die of cancer.

The outlook for cancer is not hopeless.

Cancer research is being diligently and brilliantly followed.

Proper education of the public is highly necessary.

Cancer, remaining untreated in its earliest stages, kills.

EXTRACTING BROMINE

Sea water contains an average of only 67 parts of bromine per million of water, or about one pound of bromine in 7.5 tons of water; but research has been equal to the task of extracting this minute amount.

Ask Governors To Cooperate With Military Traffic

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The War Department today called upon the governors of 48 states to name committees to co-operate with the Army in "facilitating the movement of military traffic on the highways."

One member of each state committee will act as liaison officer between the state and the army, the department said, while the committees will compile data on available civilian transportation.

"Since the army is the largest motor fleet operator in the nation, alleviation of the traffic problem is one of immediate urgency in view of the rapid expansion, expected in the near future," a department announcement said.

Any object in water displaces an amount of water equal to its own weight. If the object weighs more than an equal amount of water it will sink, and if it weighs less it will float. A solid cubic foot of iron placed in water sinks because it weighs more than a cubic foot of water. However, a cubic foot of wood floats in water because it weighs less than a cubic foot of water.

Future Farmers' Events Planned For Farm Show

Special Programs Will Be Presented During First Three Days Of Show

HARRISBURG, Jan. 10.—Between four and five thousand members of Pennsylvania Chapters of the Future Farmers of America will participate in special programs scheduled for the first three days of the 1941 state farm show, January 20-25.

They will represent the 250 Pennsylvania chapters of the national organization with a total membership of approximately 6,000 farm boys who are enrolled in vocational agriculture courses throughout the state, according to Dr. Francis B. Haas, superintendent of public instruction.

A feature of this year's FFA convention will be the presentation of the "Blackout" luminous spectacle from 35 divisions of the state will attend the banquet, also 75 boys who are eligible to receive the degree of Keystone Farmer, the highest award in the state FFA organization.

Seventy local chapter delegates from 35 divisions of the state will attend the banquet, also 75 boys who are eligible to receive the degree of Keystone Farmer, the highest award in the state FFA organization.

"Blackout" luminous spectacle frames have made their appearance in London. With a substance that glitters in the dark, they are designed to be seen for considerable distance in the dark. Many serious accidents have occurred on "blackout" nights in London.

The first circuses in America were very careful to overcome religious prejudice, which existed against them. The words "show" and "circus" were eliminated, and they were advertised as "Great Moral and Educational Exhibits."

INDIANA ALUMNAE HAS MUSIC PROGRAM

Indiana Alumnae gathered Thursday evening in the home of Miss Mildred Gresham on Elmira avenue with a delightful musical program featuring the social period.

After a brief business routine, the assembly was favored with a duet vocal number by Betty and Ruth Lutz and a piano selection by Miss Marjorie Allen. At the close, Mrs. J. W. Balentine delighted with a review of "How Green Is My Valley".

Vichy-Washington Relations Closer

(International News Service)

VICHY, Jan. 10.—Closer relations between Vichy and Washington today were believed by observers to lay behind the sudden cooling of Germany's attitude towards France.

Following the "extremely friendly" conference between Admiral William D. Leahy, American ambassador, and Marshal Henri Petain, French chief of state, German quarters said Berlin is "rather displeased" by the general French attitude. While striving to avoid any violation of the Armistice terms, the Germans will make their rule in the occupied regions more rigid, these quarters predicted.

Beset by difficulties with the Reich, France also was anxious over border fighting in French Indo-China. Reports from Indo-China indicated that Thai (Siamese) forces are receiving "substantial encouragement" from Japan in their attacks on the French colony.

Thai planes indiscriminately attacked civilians at Sisophon, Saravane, and Pailin, wounding about 60, it was charged. In addition, it was alleged that Thais bombed and shelled Vientiane and raided other points.

Better Financial Outlook For City Seen By Controller

S. L. Lockley, city controller, today presents to the public a statement in which he pictures a better financial outlook than the city has had for several years past. His statement follows:

"A recently completed study of the tax situation of City of New Castle presents some interesting and highly encouraging features to the taxpayers of our city. Since it is impossible to more than present the main facts in an article of this nature, please be assured that I shall be glad to attempt to answer in more detail any question pertaining to the data here submitted.

"The first bright feature is the recently adopted budget of the city, which shows the lowest tax levy of the past 15 years. In 1929, the total tax levied was $742,000.00, in 1939 it was $563,000.00 and this year the estimated tax levy will be $521,000.00. This represents a substantial decrease in taxes and a consequent saving to the citizens of New Castle.

"While this is good news to Mr. Average Citizen, he is nevertheless a little dubious about the whole matter and probably asks several very pertinent questions:

(1) Will the present tax reductions result in a curtailment of the services received—does the city intend to cut the police or fire force, or quit ashing streets?

(2) Do the city officials intend to operate on a balance budget, or do they intend to give a temporary tax cut and thus postpone a day of reckoning to some future time?

(3) If you can cut this much, why can't you cut more?

"The answers to these questions should give Mr. New Castle cause for a little more cheerful outlook.

"In the first place, no cut in personnel or service is contemplated; in fact, in several departments increased service is planned. It is true that certain savings have been made by council but none that should materially affect the services given the public.

"The answer to the second question is that the City Officials definitely do plan to operate on a balanced budget and, in addition, to continue to reduce the indebtedness of the city. There was a time, several years ago during the worst part of the depression, that it was necessary to issue so-called 'certificates of indebtedness' to maintain the necessary city functions. These were really notes issued against the credit of the city and bearing interest at 6 percent. During the past three years the city has paid off over $38,000.00 in this type of indebtedness and will completely wipe out the balance of about $4,000.00 this year. The only other indebtedness of the city, Bonded indebtedness, has an equally encouraging outlook. In 1929, the City had a total Bonded Debt of $1,025,000.00, on Jan. 1, 1938 this figure was $928,000.00, and at the first of this year had been reduced to $728,000.00.

"It is the feeling of the present municipal officers that the continuation of this debt reduction is of importance to the future of our city and this should be a second cheerful feature in the understanding of the municipal financial situation.

"The answer to the third question I believe, is that additional savings are always possible, but that substantial tax reductions are not probable without a substantial reduction in services rendered.

"One final additional factor in our study shows that tax collections have been on the increase during the past four years and it is quite likely that this year will show that less tax will be filed as delinquent than at any time since 1931.

"The total delinquent owed to the city has been gradually reduced in the past four years, and it is safe to say that the delinquent tax situation in New Castle compares very favorably with most Pennsylvania municipalities.

"To sum up briefly, then, lower taxes, better collections, and substantial debt reduction give the New Castle citizens a better municipal financial picture than he has seen for the past several years, and it is entirely possible with a little judicious economic belt-tightening, we may reasonably soon expect to be a completely debt-free city."

City Controller.

"The music list of required contest numbers for Pennsylvania high school bands, orchestras, choruses, soloists and ensembles has been released by the Pennsylvania Forensic and Music League, according to C. Stanton Belfour, executive secretary, at the University of Pittsburgh.

The 1941 list includes works by the masters, as well as by Pennsylvania composers. There are numbers by Mendelssohn, Enesco, Dvorak, Beethoven, Haydn and Tchaikovsky. The tuba solo contest number, "Cavalina" was composed by Fred Geib and dedicated to the Pennsylvania Forensic and Music League. Professor Richard W. Grant of the Pennsylvania State College arranged a spiritual for the boys' choral number, "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen." Professor Morton J. Luvaas of Allegheny College wrote "Out of the Night," which mixed ensembles will sing. Professor Luvaas also arranged a number by L. Spohr, "Like the Mighty Eagle," which will be performed by boys' octets. Harland C. Mitchell, director of music at the Oil City high school wrote the solo number for the League's drummers. It is entitled, "Contest Capers," and is dedicated to F. W. Shockley, director of the University of Pittsburgh Extension Division.

The Pennsylvania Forensic and Music League is now in its fourteenth season. In addition to 50 music events, there are seven speech events. Contests begin in more than 60 counties in late March, progress to eight district meetings early in April and culminate in the state finals at New Castle, April 18 and 19.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

PLAN THE GARDEN FOR PROFITABLE CROPPING

It pays to grow vegetables for the family to eat and, in addition, the garden is a good source of nutritious, tasty vegetables necessary for a complete diet.

A value of $5,461,706 is placed on the 65,671 Pennsylvania home gardens. Eighty-seven out of every 100 farms definitely have gardens, and 90 out of every 100 is the figure usually given by statisticians. While exact figures are not available on suburban gardens, it is estimated that there are at least 200,000.

The farm garden, if well managed, may be the most profitable area of ground cultivated. A net profit of $75 from a quarter acre garden frequently is recorded. A sample record is one of Mrs. C. Matern, Port Matilda, Centre county. On a one-thirtieth acre garden she grew 27 kinds of vegetables, including 12 kinds of greens, tomatoes, fresh and canned, onions, root vegetables, beans, peas, sweet corn and others. The total production was valued at $85.70 and cost expenses were $3.50.

Another example is the garden of Mrs. Floyd Zuendel, Starr, Forest county, which grew 27 kinds of vegetables and enough to keep nine adults supplied all year. This one-fifth acre garden produced for canning 139 quarts of greens, 128 quarts of tomatoes, and 97 quarts of other vegetables. Stored vegetables included cabbages, Chinese cabbage, onions, pumpkins, and five kinds of root vegetables, a total of 935 pounds.

QUALITY PACK WINS APPROVAL OF FRUIT

The apple exhibit at the Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg, January 20 to 24, promises to be a large one.

More skill, judgment, and care are required for a winning exhibit than is ordinarily suspected by the show visitor. First, a host of problems must be solved in the production of good fruit. Then comes selection of the fruit on the tree, prompt storage under proper conditions of temperature, moisture and ventilation, a final selection just before the fruit is put on exhibit, and careful handling throughout.

The grower who successfully carries out this difficult program not only gains recognition at the Farm Show but also learns many of the secrets in putting up a high quality pack of fruit which will consistently meet good consumer demand. The standards by which the ribbons are awarded are essentially the same of those used by the housewife in making purchases.

A total of 565 awards are offered in the 1941 apple exhibit. Of these, the most coveted individual prize is the State Horticultural Association cup awarded to the exhibitor of the best bushel of apples in the show. The Gabriel Heister award is given to the county horticultural association making the highest score based on number of members exhibiting and their winnings in the various classes. The greatest collection effort centers in the county exhibits consisting of 15 bushels each put up by individual county horticultural associations.

An additional feature is the Junior Apple Judging Contest. Teams of three members each, between the ages of 14 and 20 years, are entered by county horticultural associations.

CHICKENS OF ALL AGES NEED WATER REGULARLY

Chickens of all ages consume large quantities of water. Poultrymen who have carried water readily attest to the importance of this single item of the diet.

Fresh, cool, clean water which generally is easily supplied but often neglected, is appetizing to the fowl aids digestion and other body functions, and is consumed in proportions to the feed intake, rate of production and season of the year. One hundred fowls will consume approximately 16 to 20 quarts of water daily.

Various watering devices are satisfactory. Some automatic devices operate in conjunction with running water piped to the laying house; others have large capacity funnels. Open water vessels may profitably be covered with a grid as a sanitary measure. Drains and overflow pipes are helpful in removal of waste water and further aid in reducing the labor problem. Ease of cleaning also is an important essential.

Spillage from the funnels often creates a wet litter problem. Containers placed on the floor under the funnels and approaches may provide several inches of sawdust, coal ashes, or other absorbent material for taking up the spillage.

When the deep or built-up litter is used, the wetted portion can be removed and the adjacent litter raked into the spot cleaned out.

Various types of water heaters are available and help insure satisfactory water supplies in deep winter. There is little advantage in getting fowls off roosts in the early hours of wintry mornings unless some means of preventing the water from freezing is provided.

Watering devices are best located near the feeding hoppers to provide ready access to fowls and thereby promote both mash and water consumption.

SOME BEES MAY NEED FEEDING THIS WINTER

Some colonies of bees which had a short honey flow during the fall will need feeding soon to avoid starvation. Colonies light in weight will need feeding. A hive contained bees, but no honey weighs 35 to 40 pounds.

Sugar candy is recommended as a winter feed for needy bees. It is made with 15 pounds of cane sugar, 3½ pounds of glucose and 5 cups of water.

Stir the mixture as it heats until the sugar is dissolved. Heat to 230 degrees Fahrenheit, testing with a candy thermometer. Then add a half-teaspoon of cream of tartar. Continue to heat until the syrup reaches 238 degrees.

Beat the mixture as it cools and pour into molds when it begins to harden. A shoe box lined with wax paper makes a good mold.

When the candy is cold, place it above the frames on two small strips of wood about three-eighths inch square and the length of the candy. Cover the candy and frames with burlap and other packing material 2 inches or more thick.

The bees collect on the underside of the candy and use it as feed. The bees may be fed again when necessary. It is better not to disturb them during extremely cold weather.

POINTS FOR WOULD-BE CLOTHING EXHIBITORS

It's only a short time until home-makers in Lawrence County will be sending their clothing exhibits to the state farm show in Harrisburg.

Unfortunately, all these exhibits will not boast a blue, red or white ribbon.

After judging is completed at the show, exhibitors often ask, "Why didn't I get a blue ribbon on my dress?"

To acquaint exhibitors with standards for judging, Miss Julia Markle, home economics extension representative of Lawrence county, explains a few important ones.

First, she reminds homemakers that judging is not a personal matter with the judge. She judges colors for harmonious combinations and suitability to the kind of garment. Becomingness is an important factor, but cannot be judged without the wearer.

The judge considers the design of the garment and its purpose in relation to the material used. A tailored design which calls for straight, crisp lines loses its beauty if made of a soft, flimsy fabric. A design featuring soft shirring gives the effect desired only if made up in a soft material that shirrs easily. Material should be of a quality that justifies the time, labor, and money spent on making it into a garment.

The judge also considers the beauty and suitability of a patterned fabric. The simplest designs are usually the most attractive and most serviceable. Trimmings must add beauty to the dress and must be suitable to the fabric and the purpose of the dress. For example, all wash garments call for washable colorful trimmings, and it should be as durable as the fabric of the dress.

Workmanship counts, but no more than color selection or beauty of design. The judge looks for smooth neat pleats, even flat hems that are firm, but inconspicuous, and firmly attached fasteners. Buttonholes are appropriate for buttons if they are used, Miss Markle points out.

Clean, well-pressed and neatly folded garments help to make a favorable impression on the judge. The value of competitive exhibits, says Miss Markle, is measured by the degree in which the exhibitors' standards are raised. Women who exhibit want to know how to improve their work from year to year. When they see the articles exhibited they get ideas and compare the results of judging.

At the 1940 farm show, 1,144 articles of clothing were entered in the open, vocational, and 4-H classes. Prizes went to 55 of the 67 counties in the state.

College Fliers Get Licenses

Government Inspector Spends Three Days Conducting Flight Tests

Inspector Charles H. Curry of the Civil Aeronautics Board, has for the past three days been conducting flight tests at the New Castle Airport for pilots who have completed their training in the Civilian Pilot Training Program at Findley Wilson's Grove City Flying School.

The students who were successful in passing the examination to entitle them to private licenses follow: James B. Foster, New Castle; Donald M. Reed, Grove City; Howard R. Bish, Butler; Samuel R. Boston, Creekside, Pa.; John A. Bowser, Kittanning; Howard J. Brush, Wilmerding; George J. Carpenter, Oil City; David S. Easterbrook, Grove City; William H. Hartman, Glenshaw; Alden Lee Hicks, Monaca; Farrell C. Hook, Butler; and Thomas M. Hullings, Marionville.

The remainder of the 20 students enrolled in the Grove City program will have completed their training in the near future and will be given flight examinations at a later date.

Inspector Curry was greatly pleased with the precision with which these students executed the various flight maneuvers in the test, and complimented Mr. Wilson on the type of training given by his instructors, David H. McGown and William T. Shearer.

The sponsor, Grove City College, has, according to Wilson been exceptionally cooperative throughout the entire program and there already is a large number of applicants who desire to enroll in the spring training program which starts on February 1.

New Advances By British On Sudan Frontier

By DESMOND TIGHE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY BE-PORRE TOBRUK, Jan. 10. — While Anzac wheeled units continued their westward dash along the Libyan coast and reinforcements were rushed to the siege of Tobruk, British officials today announced a 70-mile thrust into Italian Somaliland and new advances on the Sudan frontier.

Buna, in Somaliland, was captured by mechanized troops in a quick drive which paid off the Italians for their past capture of British Somaliland early in the African campaign.

Britain's newest successes on African fronts thousands of miles apart were told in the following crisp communiqué:

"Covered by operations to the west, concentration of our forces around Tobruk are continuing."

"On the Sudan frontier, patrols inflicted a number of casualties on the enemy holding positions east of Serobotib post which we captured Jan. 7."

"Yesterday morning our mobile columns entered Buna unopposed. There they ascertained that the enemy had abandoned El-wak as a result of our successful raid last month."

Good Program Is Enjoyed By County Farmers

Annual Meeting Of Agricultural Extension Association Largely Attended

CURRENT PROBLEMS DISCUSSED BY GROUP

Lawrence county farmers, who are members of the Lawrence County Agricultural Extension association, enjoyed one of the finest programs in the history of the organization at the 24th annual meeting of the group in the Highland U. P. church Thursday.

The group assembled at 10:30 o'clock, and in spite of bad road conditions, one of the largest attendances in recent years was noted. President R. P. Peebles, presided over a short business session, when officers were elected for the coming year, the retiring corps of officers being elected without exception. President Peebles announced that the executive committee will be chosen at a reorganization meeting of the officers to be held in the near future.

Problems of current interest to the county farmers were then discussed by able leadership, the following program being presented:

"Hybrid Corn Results in Lawrence County," G. A. Bradley, Pulaski Township.

"Women's Spring Meeting," Mrs. Emma Miller, Big Beaver Township.

"Rye Grass as a Cover Crop," C. B. Patton, Hickory Township.

"The Problem of Soil Erosion Losses," Howard Aiken, Perry Township.

"Remodeling and Renovation Problems," Mrs. K. K. McCreary, Hickory Township.

"What 4-H Leadership School Does for Rural Youth," Harry Green, Neshannock Township.

"Old Pastures Made New," S. J. Hunt, Scott Township.

"My Visit to Club Week at State College," Madge Neely, Plaingrove Township.

After lunch, served by the ladies of the church, a group of numbers was presented by the Senior High School A Cappella choir, under the direction of Robert Duff.

Shows Progress

Miss Julia C. Markle, home economics representative, gave an interesting report on her work during the year, showing a continued expansion of the home economics program among the farm women and girls of the county. Agricultural 4-H club work was reported by Assistant County Agent L. C. Dayton, and County Agent Harold R. McCulloch showed the great amount of work done by the association, valuable assistance being given the farmers in all lines of farm endeavor by demonstration meetings during the year, when state experts were present to conduct the demonstrations and answer questions.

R. W. Kerns spoke interestingly on a program for Lawrence county communities. Mr. Kerns is an extension specialist from Penn State College. P. L. Edging, assistant director of agricultural extension from Penn State College, also spoke on the growth of the extension service in Pennsylvania.

In addition to the officers, President R. P. Peebles of Scott Township; vice president, W. N. Walker of Little Beaver township; secretary, Mrs. Harry Kretzer, of Mahoning township; and treasurer, Glenn Patterson of Hickory township; those who served the association as directors during the past year were: A. F. Arnold, Little Beaver township; J. L. Burton, Scott township; Mrs. J. E. Carr, Washington township; Ray Foster, Plaingrove township; R. N. Moore, Wilmington township; H. L. McCrory, North Beaver township; Mrs. K. K. McCreary, Hickory township; H. H. Purvis, Union township; Miss Virginia Rudzik, Pulaski township; John C. Syling, New Castle; Lauren Thompson, Wilmington township; Mrs. H. G. Wallace, North Beaver township; and Mrs. W. H. Walton, Wayne township.

Believes Germany Will Seek To Come To Aid Of Italy Against Greece

(Editor's Note: Germany will come to the aid of Italy in an attempt to "rob the Greeks of their victories." Sir Philip Gibbs, famous British war analyst, predicts in the following article written for International News Service. Germany's plan, however, may be frustrated by more material aid from Britain and the United States, the noted correspondent says.)

By SIR PHILIP GIBBS
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

LONDON, Jan. 10.—News from Greece is very remarkable today. There is deep snow in the mountains, with heavy drifts in the valleys and on the roads—which in many places are only tracks—and the precipitous mountain passes are ice-bound.

The Greek troops are not too well clothed and not too well fed for a winter campaign. But they have been fighting for a long time and still are making short rushes and assaults upon Italian positions, taking more prisoners and guns, and strengthening their own defenses.

One day all this will make epic history. After two thousand years, by some miracle the spirit of the old Greek heroes has come back. The siege of Troy did not produce more valor than the deeds performed during recent weeks by the humble men whose names are not yet recorded, and who in normal life are peasants in goatskins, carpet-weavers, carpenters and mechanics.

They have had to face a worse thing than did the mythical heroes of Homer. The thunderbolts of Jove were less alarming than the high explosive bombs dropped by Italian airmen or the explosives fired by Italian guns.

The modern mechanized divisions of their enemy are more formidable than the Trojan cavalry. Humiliate Mussolini.

Yet these Greeks have humiliated Mussolini and his legions, and have given new hope to all those who are fighting for liberty against the tyrannies of dictatorship.

That has surprised the world, but not a few men here and there who knew Greece during the World War and have known it since were not surprised.

A friend of mine, who is a close friend of the Greek people, with whom he lived for seven years, provided a good prophetic before these recent victories.

"The Italians will take a knock now that they have invaded Greece," he said at the time. "These fellows are no match for the Greek soldiers—at least not man to man."

"I know the Greeks. They can live for months on bread and goat cheese. They are as sure-footed as their own mules on the narrow ledges of the mountain passes. They of exiles who reached Greece homeless, despairing and forlorn. Now the Greeks have made close friends with their former enemy. The Turks have made an alliance with them in sincere and loyal friendship.

Something else has happened to Greece because of its heroism. All liberty-loving peoples throughout the world are eager to give them help. They are getting it and will get more from Great Britain and the United States.

It is in the cards of fate that Germany will come to the aid of Italy (their airmen already have arrived) and will try to rob the Greeks of their victories, smash them back from Albania, and roll them up in mud and blood.

That must not be allowed to happen. By all means possible, Britain is determined to send help to Greece, and from the United States the Greeks are already promised machines and material which will help them in their defense of liberty.

More Classes In Home Hygiene Are Organized In City

Red Cross Chapter Sponsors Classes For Women In Practical Nursing

Mrs. Joseph Dagnon and Mrs. Travis French, volunteer home hygiene and care of the sick instructors of the Lawrence county chapter, American Red Cross, have organized two classes in home hygiene.

An afternoon class will meet every Tuesday afternoon at two p. m. at the chapter house, 39 North Beaver street, with Mrs. French instructing. An evening class will meet every Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. with Mrs. Dagnon instructing.

All those enrolled in the classes, but who were unable to attend the first meeting on Monday, Jan. 6, at 2:30, are to report on the above dates at which ever meeting will be most convenient to the applicants.

The home hygiene class at Edinburg is getting well under way, and the class at Ben Franklin junior high school will soon be completed.

Other classes are organizing, and any interested persons who were unable to enroll in any of these classes may call the chapter house, 5084, and enroll for the next classes.

Veterans Hospital Site Not Selected

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The veterans bureau disclosed today that it planned to hold an open hearing next Thursday on sites for the proposed veterans hospital in Pennsylvania.

The bureau said the hearing would be held in Washington and that "any and all delegations were welcome to attend."

(Editor's Note: Informed Washington sources indicated recently that the hospital would probably be built somewhere in central Pennsylvania. Veterans bureau representatives have already inspected a half dozen sites in the central area of the state, and have filed their reports in Washington.)

(One of the sites under consideration, International News Service disclosed recently, is the estate of the late Charles H. Schwab, "Immergrun," located at Cresson.)

FARM BOYS FOLLOW IN DAD'S FOOTSTEPS

(International News Service)
STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Jan. 10.—Farmers' sons are more likely than miners' sons to follow in dad's footsteps when they choose their college course of study, a report by William S. Hoffman, registrar of the Pennsylvania State College, showed.

Out of 332 sons of farmers who are attending Penn State, 226 are enrolled in the school of agriculture, the report disclosed. On the other hand, only 14 out of 162 miners' sons are enrolled in the mining engineering curriculum, although an additional 12 are majoring in other courses in the school of mineral industries.

Reindeer milk is said to be the richest of 11 different kinds of milk listed in the 1939 Federal Yearbook of Agriculture.

Tells Why He Joined Local Guard Battery

By PRIVATE FLOYD J. CONNERS
2nd Battalion Service Battery,
190th Field Artillery

(Editor's Note: It is seldom that a first person story appears in these columns. But due to the trend by local young men enlisting in the local units of the Pennsylvania National Guard, who will be inducted into the regular army January 13 for a year of training, a newly made recruit, Floyd J. Connors of 933 Warren avenue, this city, was asked why he preferred volunteering his services rather than being drafted and here is what we were told.)

Well, you see, it's all a personal problem and this is the way I worked it out. I'm one of the fellows eligible for selective service. I'm 22 years old and in apparently good health. I graduated from the local high school and now have a fairly good job; a swell girl and a lot of unfinished plans for the future.

My number drawn in the draft, in the 5000's, made it a pretty safe bet that I wouldn't be conscripted for army service for several years yet, and maybe I could forget all about it for a while. But I didn't. I kept wondering what the next step should be. So that's when I began figuring:

Here I am... I've got security as long as I keep working. My girl friend wants to get married. We planned a trip out to the west coast for next summer—maybe it would be our honeymoon... but, wait a minute, son, how do you know you'll be going anywhere? Except to the place Uncle Sam tells you to go. Remember, he's got a number on you and when that numeral is ordered up, well, boy, that's where you exchange your clothes.

So you see, I just couldn't see how

I could make any concrete plans with that obligation staring me in the face. Why not get it over with first; right away and then begin to plan for a year hence. And that's what I did!

I was assured by my company that they would take care of my job and it would be ready for me when I came back.

'Course my girl friend fussed a little, but you know how women are about such things.

After I presented myself for enlistment with the local unit of the National Guard at the Cunningham Armory in Cascade Park, and made proper application, I soon found out I now was away ahead of the draft game.

After passing the physical examination, I was issued complete outfit of well-fitting uniforms. Then I was given an almost unlimited selection of the kind of work I liked best and wanted to do and learn as a member of the National Guard.

For instance: I could go into Battery F, 190th Field Artillery, now known as the "Firing Battery," and become active on the gun crew. There's 12 men in each crew. Or I could select the instrument or communication sections.

Being mechanically inclined, I still was given a better choice in the newly created service battery of the 2nd Battalion.

This particular branch requires the services of mechanics, engineers, technicians, truck drivers and all mechanically talented men. This new battery is completely composed of specialists and, of course, the army recognizes and pays each specialist better than the ordinary soldier.

Thus, I went into the Service Battery, which is under the command of Lieut. William H. Goering, Jr., who is soon to be commissioned as captain for this Second Battalion Service Battery, 190th Field Artillery, as commanding officer.

There's a swell bunch of officers and fellows in this local outfit—boys that I have known a long time, having went to school with most of them. We expect to toughen up a lot and come back to civil life better men than when we went away. The average young man of today has gone "soft" because of our way of modern living. Army life is healthy! Regular hours, regular meals of good wholesome food and lots of exercise.

My specialist rating in the army will bring extra pay in addition to my regular base pay. As a conscriptee, I'd have little or no chance of ever coming close to that kind of money.

As part of the National Guard, we know our officers and associates; they're all local men: The commanding officer of Battery F is Capt. George F. Mitchell. First Lieutenant Goehring, mentioned previously, is in command of the Service Battery.

Other commissioned localities are Lieuts. Raymond Atkinson, Edward Eakin and Robert Moore. Subordinate commands are under the direction of Sergeants Willard Miller, James Cleaver, Louis Harlan, James McGivern and Ben Nessler.

There's another particular reason why I enlisted in the National Guard, that most young men overlook. As a member of the National Guard and after you have received your year of training you are held in reserve for two and one half years, but a draftee with a year's training isn't on reserve for just 2½ years; he is eligible for call to duty for 10 long years! That's reason enough!

At the moment, we guardsmen are preparing last minute details prior to pushing off for a warm winter in the South and it isn't hard to take with all expenses paid.

The destination is Camp Shelby, Mississippi, located near the Gulf of Mexico, and 12 miles from the city of Hattiesburg, a community of about 28,000.

Hattiesburg is in the center of a rich agricultural region. The climate there is exceptionally mild and healthy and records show that in 30 years there are (oh boy!) 222 days of sunshine per year with an annual temperature of 66 degrees—in the summer about 81 and the coldest winter is recorded and averaged at 51 degrees.

I'm told that the physical structure of Camp Shelby is ideal for training purposes and its 105,000 acres will be the educational center for about 60,000 men, well-housed and well-fed. The latter fascinates me!

There is plenty of activity around to free one of boredom according to the Hattiesburg Chamber of Commerce, with all kinds of recreation, including modern theaters, several golf courses, swimming beaches and—hey fellows, look at this; we'll only be 10 miles from the Mississippi College for Women!

Is you all comin' along?

Annual Dinner Of Bible Class

Men's Bible Class Of First Baptist Church Enjoys Program Thursday Night

In the dining room of the First Baptist church on Thursday evening at 6:30 about 50 members of the Men's Bible class gathered for their annual dinner, business meeting and entertainment, the former taking the form of a splendid oyster supper.

The business meeting was in charge of the president, R. Lawrence Hildebrand. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Frank Baptiste, vice president; second vice president, Harry Barr; Howard Ziegler, secretary; Alec Gardner, assistant secretary; L. W. Houk, treasurer; Gilbert James, librarian.

R. L. Hildebrand, who has served as president for two years, and was reelected, did not choose to serve a third term, and the election of president was deferred until the first Sunday in February.

Dr. Hollinshead and William Bowman were elected teacher and assistant teacher, respectively, of the class.

After the business meeting, W. O. "Red" Williams led the members in a number of "pep" songs, and gave several vocal selections, accompanied by Raymond Melchiorre on his piano-acordion.

Dan Reebel, chairman of the entertainment committee, presented a program: Piano-acordion selections by Raymond Melchiorre; violin selections by Arlene Blank; and trumpet solos by John Buopane, with William Stewart as accompanist. The program was well received.

Thad. Kirker, the class poet, gave a reading.

A short address was given by Dr.

Frank Hollinshead, the interim pastor.

L. W. Houk, Jesse McCommons, Harry Brown, W. T. Sterling, Harry Irwin, D. C. McClelland, Walter Shoaff and Frank Baptiste, comprised the "eats" committee, who were extended a hearty vote of thanks.

Thomas Arthrell of Youngstown, a former member was one of the guests.

Dr. Hollinshead pronounced the benediction.

NEW CASTLE OPENS SECTION THREE TONIGHT

Aliquippa High Will Play Here

New Castle Hopes To Start Section Play With Victory Here Tonight

RESERVE TEAMS IN PRELIMINARY

New Castle High school basketball team will open the 1941 Section Three, W. P. I. A. L. season this evening at George Washington High gym by meeting one of the strongest contenders in the league—Aliquippa High Steelers. The reserves of both schools will play the preliminary at 7 o'clock.

Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh has intimated a revamped lineup for tonight. Charles "Red" Ross will get one of the forward starting berths and the other may fall to either Jay Thomas or Lindale Walls. Al Bucci who has been sick for the past week or so may not be able to start at center and his job may fall to Cooper or Zubkovsky. The guard jobs will be handled by Christopher and Adamo. Parou is a first string reserve guard.

Aliquippa Is Strong

Coach Nate Lippe will bring one of the best Aliquippa high teams in years here tonight. In Perry and Bar the visitors will present two very fine forwards and in the pre-league season this pair has totaled the majority of the Steelers points. Aliquippa has an eye cast on the Section Three title, this year and hope to get started on the right foot by taking over New Castle but they may find this job hard to accomplish. New Castle also barbs section Three honors and will strive desperately to get victory number one tonight.

See Hard Fought Game

The game will no doubt be hard fought in every period. New Castle has always found Aliquippa a worthy foe either at home or away. This year will be no exception. Aliquippa has won six pre-league season games and is undefeated.

The New Castle team has been working out during the holidays and is in fine shape. Nothing would suit the boys better than to start a long winning streak this evening.

The prices are the same as last year—reserved seats 35, general admission 25.

The following are the probable lineups:

New Castle	Aliquippa
Ross	F
Walls	F
Thomas	P
Bucci	C
Cooper	C

GENEVA TRIPS

GROVER QUINTET

Geneva College annexed a 50-41 cage victory at the expense of Grove City, last night at Beaver Falls.

The 1941 major league season is slated to start on April 14.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Lawrence and Mercer counties for a long time have been noted for not only good fighters, diamond stars, basketball quints but also gridders. Those of the pigskin game after having shown brilliantly on the green plats of both counties have soared in collegiate ranks and have proved to be bright bulbs. In coaching they have also gone forward, proof of which was noted in the sport columns of an Ann Arbor, Mich., newspaper of which Ralph Byers, formerly of this city, is editor. The story in the Ann Arbor publication reports that Tuss McLaughry, formerly of Westminster, Pitt, and now of Brown, has been renamed secretary-treasurer of the Football Coaches association. And further, Harvey Harmon, a Ne-Ca-Hi and Pitt star who coached at Haverford and Penn and who now mentors at Rutgers has been named a trustee of the organization. Fritz Crisler of Michigan U. has been elevated from first vice president to the presidency and Elmer Layden of Notre Dame has been advanced to the vice presidency and will become president in 1942.

Whether his opponent be Billy Garrett or Eddie Bynum, Sonny Horne, the Niles "sockerino" welterweight, can anticipate a hard fight when he participates in the semi-final of the Johnson triplets benefit boxing show here January 20. Garrett and Bynum both hail from McKeesport and are among the upper crust of western Pennsylvania 147-pounders. Not long ago Bynum took on the tough and rugged Billy Reale of this city and gave him a mighty interesting fight. Russell Baxter, this city's latest hope for pugilistic honors will don the gloves with Nick Bofa of Pittsburgh, a newcomer to this city. They are 147-pounders. Les Leasure, called the "Canco Kid" because he works at the American Can company, has shown an aptitude.

Church League Games Tonight

There are three games listed for tonight in the New Castle church basketball league. The first game at 7:45 o'clock will send the Epworth team into battle with the First Methodists.

The second game will find the St. George Greeks playing the First Presbyterians. The third game will have St. Marys battling the First Baptists.

FACTORS PLAY SUNDAY

The Factor Variety girls basketball team will open the season this coming Sunday at the Polish Falcon hall by meeting the famous George Factor team known as the New Kensington Businessettes. George Factor, coach of the local team are brothers. The game will start at 2 o'clock and will precede the Falcon-Arnold Ukes game.

In what Promoter Bob Brickman bills as the light heavyweight championship, backed by the National Boxing Association, Melio Bettina of Beacon, N. Y., and Anton Christoforidis, European lightweight king, meet in the Cleveland Arena, Jan. 13, in a 15-round bout. To the winner goes the N. B. A. title which has been held by Billy Conn. Mike Jacobs, New York promoter, threatens a suit if the Bettina-Christoforidis match is advertised as a championship affair.

Notes scribbled while watching snow flakes trickle to the ground:

St. Vitus Beat Shelby B Team

The Ellwood City Shelby Socials basketball team through Fred Mancini, publicity director, today hotly denied that the St. Vitus team of the New Castle church league met and defeated recently the Shelby Social big team at the Shelby floor. It was the Shelby B team that the Saints defeated.

The Ellwood Socials Big Five has lost only two games this season and have won 12, both defeats were to college fives—Slippery Rock and Pitt. At the present time the Socials are leading the Beaver Valley league with an undefeated record.

Charley Gehringer, veteran Detroit star, was the first Tiger to sign a 1941 contract.

Gersons Schedule House Of David Basketball Team

Gersons Bringing Famous Attraction To Arena Floor Monday, January 13

The Gerson basketball team, carrying out the idea of bringing to New Castle the best possible basketball attractions, have scheduled the famous House of David basketball team for a game at the Arena floor Monday, January 13.

The House of David team has been in existence for many years and they have a very fine reputation as basketball players. The team is coached by Jimmy Woods, who also acts as captain and is the team's comedian. Woods also plays on the House of David basketball team. He played in 125 basketball games last year. A newcomer to the team is Jack LaRocca, a member of the New York Yankees' farm at Kansas City, where he helped pitch the Blues to the little world series in 1938. He has an ailing arm and was forced out of baseball.

This coming Sunday the Gersons will battle the Leeds Jewelers of Warren here, with the Booker T. Washington colored team playing a fast colored team from Erie. Following the main game the Fannins and Duquesne Steelers will play, making three floor games for the evening. The Leeds team was run up at the 1940 Hubbard floor tourney.

Nova-Comiskey Battle Tonight Junior Church League Games

Winner Tonight In Heavyweight Bout Gets Chance To Meet Joe Louis

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—In the first big heavyweight fight of the new year, Lou Nova, of California, will attempt to prove tonight that he is the outstanding contender for Joe Louis' world heavyweight championship and that Patrick Edward Comiskey was nothing more or less than an overnight sensation. They will meet in a 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden before a crowd expected to approximate 15,000, with Nova an almost negligible favorite. The odds at the ringside will be about 6 to 5.

Importance of the engagement rests in the fact that if Nova wins he undoubtedly will be matched with Tony Galento who knocked him out in 14 rounds a little over a year ago, and if he even that one up he next will draw Louis himself as an opponent. In the event Comiskey comes through the same procedure may be followed although it is more likely that he will be held back for awhile and carried along more slowly.

Weights About Even

Comiskey was to get a crack at Louis along about now until he ran into Max Baer a few months ago and was belted out in one round. Since then he has won four fights, two by knockouts in 34 starts. Nova has won his one and only start since being knocked out by Galento and winding up in a hospital with septic poisoning.

In size there will be scarcely anything to choose between them. Nova will scale around 201 against Comiskey's 206 which as heavyweights go, make them virtually even.

Polish Falcons Trip Aliquippa

The Polish Falcons defeated the Aliquippa P. C. club last night at the Falcon hall 40 to 26, marking the first time that the valley team has been defeated in nine starts, winning eight in a row until the "Falcs" stopped them.

Eddie "Cash" Koszela, "Pop" Adams and Sniezek paced the Falcons in tallying, while Milanovich was the best for the visitors.

Sunday the Falcons play the Arnold Ukrainians and in the preliminary the Factor Variety girls of this city play the George Factor coached New Kensington Businessettes at 1:30 o'clock. The Factors have been newly uniformed this year.

Titans Meet Geneva On Saturday Night

(Special to The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Jan. 10.—The Westminster college cagers will be out for their seventh straight win of the 1940-41 basketball season on the New Wilmington floor Saturday night when they meet their old rivals, the Geneva Covenanters.

In early season games, the Titans have brushed seven teams out of the way: Alderson-Broadus, Slippery Rock, Carnegie Tech, Indiana, Youngstown and Pitt, scoring 270 points to their opponents' 194. In the past 11 years, out of 21 games played since 1929, Westminster has won 15 and lost 6. Last year, the Titans defeated Geneva 60-44 and in turn lost to the Covenanters 39-38.

Throughout this season, Westminster has demonstrated an airtight zone defense, following three previous years of man-to-man play. If too many opposition long shots begin pouring into Blue and White territory, the Titans shift over to man-to-man tactics.

Highest scoring for the Titans has come from the tosses of "Buz" Ridl, junior from Irwin, whose average is 68 points for six games. Ridl is followed by Dale Dunmore with 53 points, Lee Fox with 51 and Wasik with 48, to give the Titans the closest point-race, within the team, in many years. Instead of building up a high-point scorer, Westminster cagers are all potential point-getters, equally dangerous inside the scoring zone.

Largest hurdles the Titans have yet to jump are two games with Geneva, one with Washington-Jefferson and two with Waynesburg.

Bobo-Mann Cop Fistic Battles

Harry Bobo, Pittsburgh's colored sensation, boosted his heavyweight stocks by scoring a 10 round decision over Gunnar Barlund, Finland, last night in Baltimore.

Bobo, who fought here during his amateur tenure, scaled 202. Barlund weighed 195.

In New Haven, Nathan Mann, New England's heavyweight king, technically kayoed Charlie (Hobo) Williams, Fort Lauderdale, Florida, in eight heats.

Coach Little Likes New Football Rules

Columbia Coach Thinks Game In 1941 Will Be Greatly Benefited By Rule Changes

Both Player And Spectator Will Get Bigger Thrill When Next Season Arrives

By LOU LITTLE
Head Football Coach At Columbia University and Chairman of the Football Coaches Rules Committee.
(Written Especially For International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—In the major bowl games that closed the 1940 football season a few days ago, intercollegiate football came to the end of the campaign in a condition of ruddy health.

There was at least one team in action from each section of the country in these climax games. The results indicated what the general season throughout the fall had proved amply before that no section of the country has a copyright on good football.

Games Going Forward
But more important than that, the results and the scores proved that the game, as played today, is in the finest condition of its history, in conception of tactics and execution of plays. Keen offensive weapons, used with quick-thinking judgment, make today's football attack the best balanced, the most interesting to watch and the hardest to stop that the game has ever seen. The emphasis is on the attack, as it should be, because aggressiveness, going forward, is the spirit of the game and of the American mind.

Looking forward, I am enthusiastic in the belief that the rules changes adopted by Chairman Walter R. Oakeson's football rules committee last week will improve the game even more—both for the player and the spectator.

The rule which permits the ball to be handed forward at any point behind the line of scrimmage will enhance to a noticeable degree the possibilities for deception on running plays, as well as on plays from which a forward pass, or even a quick kick may develop. Every move that widens the scope of deception in the football offense makes the game a better test. This change definitely will do that, as well as eliminating a needless artificial restriction.

New Pass Rule
Also encouraging the attack without subjecting the defense to undue pressure is the rule which treats an incomplete pass into the end-zone on fourth down exactly like an incomplete pass anywhere else on the field.

This means simply that the team which has worked its way to the six-yard line, for instance, then has been forced to pass on fourth down into the end-zone, is not robbed of all reward for that advance if the pass is incomplete.

I do not believe it is too much to ask that the defense in such a case put the ball in play on its own six-yard stripe, instead of out on the 20-yard line. Of course, the team, now turned to offense, is under pressure so deep in its own territory. But it was either offensive power, on the one hand, or defensive deficiency, on the other, which helped to put the ball on the six-yard line.

The team which carried it that far deserves to lose the ball, of course, if a fourth-down play is unsuccessful. But it does not deserve to lose the well-earned position on the field. In other words, save when there is an infraction of the rules, the ball should move by being run, thrown or kicked by a player, not carried at a brisk walk by an official.

New Sub Rule

The new provision permitting free substitution should make football a better game in 1941. It is a move in the interests of physical safety. It will also be a help to the small squad playing out of superior manpower. It will not delay the game, as some have suggested, because the substitutions will be made without penalty only when time is out or in one of the normal three time-outs allotted to each team during a half. Each substitution made otherwise will cost the substituting team five yards.

The elimination of the rule prohibiting a substitute from talking until after the ball has been put in play is important only insofar as it removes one of the game's few remaining artificial restrictions. I have never quite understood why a player who will be an integral part of the eleven-man unit in a few seconds should be compelled for those few seconds to stand apart from his teammates as if he had some communicable disease.

I hope and believe that the recommendation of the rules committee regarding uniform numbering of players for the convenience of spectators and newspaper observers will receive wide practical application next fall, and that as a result every spectator will instinctively come to follow the game more intelligently and more easily.

Section 20 Foes Battle Tonight

Bessemer Hopes To Halt Surging "Greyhounds"; Wampum At East Brook

Lawrence County's Section 20 cage wheel spins around again tonight. The schedule makers have provided another collection of sizzling tiffs. East Brook, which is setting the pace at this writing, will trot onto its home court confident of thrashing aside Wampum High. The game appears to be a natural from all angles. Despite a pair of setbacks, Wampum still looms as a dangerous threat.

Riding the crest of a seven game winning streak, including a league triumph, New Wilmington High fires away against Bessemer, on Bessemer floor. Spearheaded by the well known Paul Munner and his sidekick, "Kenny" Cathcart, the collection boasts of another classy flipping brigade. McCree and Pezzuolo loom as Bessemer's main size guns.

Shenango Township High hopes to brush aside Mt. Jackson, on Shenango floor, thus preserving a clean league record. Shenango teed-off by trouncing Union High in its first Section 20 fray, "Bob" Pitzer, one of the most talented cage hands in the county, is the nucleus of Shenango's machine. Clark and Pete Razzano rank as main cogs on the Mounties' club.

Union Township is idle.

De demonstrated that he knows a few things about the art of refereeing and made a bit with the fighters and the spectators. He'll be back for more action." Tom referees all the bouts in The Arena here.

Pat Comiskey is a slight favorite over Lou Nova in their fight tonight in Madison Square Garden, New York. Nova has been idle since he lost to Tony Galento. One week from tonight, Fritz Zivic will defend his welterweight crown against the man from whom he won it, Henry Armstrong.

Eddie Brannick, secretary of the Giants, believe the Giants will win the 1941 flag. Brannick picks St. Louis and Cincinnati to finish second and third.

Jim Farley sailed yesterday for South America and asserted before his departure he expects to be at the head of the Yankees after his return. He believes the job of raising $1,500,000 as a down payment on the purported price of approximately $4,000,000, will be raised while he is away. He will return March 10.

Baby Kid Chocolate, Philadelphia and Carmen Notch will box tonight in Pittsburgh in a 10-rounder. . . . Lloyd Mangrum turned in a 67 to lead in the first round of the Oakland, Cal., $5,000 Open Golf tournament.

Touchdown club of New York honored Amos Alonzo Stagg, 78 year old coach, for his unusual service and contribution to the advancement of football in the Hotel Roosevelt, New York, last night. . . . Larry French, southpaw hurler has signed his Cubs 1941 contract.

FOUR PITCHERS LIBERAL IN A. A.

Four moundsmen were too, too liberal in the American Association during 1940.

Frank Melton, of Columbus, grabbed top honors by giving away 139 bases on balls. A team mate, Tom Sunkel, dished out 117 tickets. Stancu and Kimberlin, of Kansas City and Toledo respectively, followed with 109 and 107.

Ellwood City High Football Squad Feted By Lions Thursday

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 10.—Ellwood City high school's entire football squad and junior high players, numbering about 50, were royally entertained as the guests of the newly organized Lions club at the community football banquet held last night at the Elks club, which donated the ballroom for the event.

While the long impressive list of gridiron celebrities that have appeared at like banquets in past years was missing, the event was especially enjoyable by an informal talk that will be long outstanding in memories of good fellowship.

About 250 players and townspeople were served an appetizing roast pork dinner as the initial feature. Denny Schill acted as master of ceremonies and kept the program moving along at a merry pace. Rev. A. M. Stevenson offered the invocation. Opening the program, Joseph J. Eckert, president of the Lions club, extended a welcome to the assembly and H. J. Myers, secretary of the Elks club, spoke briefly on behalf of his organization. Dr. H. E. Helling, a member of the school board, received a great ovation when he promised the installation of lights for next year's games.

Coaches Thurman E. "Dutch" Croft and Howard B. Gills each expressed much appreciation for the community support of the teams and lauded the players who made such a remarkable record during the past year. Tribute to the junior high coach, Harold Barry, who was unable to attend, was paid by Bill Flanagan, a member of the team. Jerry Newton, basketball coach, was introduced and spoke humorously for a few minutes.

Hubbard Speaks
Cal Hubbard, present American league umpire, and former member of the Geneva college football team of Bo McMillen fame, was the principal speaker. In his brief talk, Mr. Hubbard stressed the philosophy of "always giving everything you have in whatever you are doing." He advised the players to "bear down" on school work and plan to go to college, which he said could be done with little effort if the boy attacked the problem like he would an "oncoming" football player.

Following the address the presentation of gifts was made and there were so many that those who went home without any felt slighted. Joseph N. Latiano, secretary of the Lions club, presented a handsome "traveling bag" to Al Pishioneri, captain of this year's team, who was voted by his teammates as the most valuable player on the squad. The bag was given by Carl Martin of the Ellwood Furniture company.

Pishioneri in turn presented attractive wallets and key cases to Coaches Croft and Gills as remembrances from the squad. The surprise gift of the evening was the presentation of a lovely trophy to Andy Biorli by the team. Because Mr. Biorli is the team's outstanding and most loyal supporter, the gift was most appropriate and greatly appreciated by the recipient.

Mr. Biorli then presented beautiful white portable radios to Coaches Newton and Barry, attractive desk sets to George Herrold, faculty manager; John King, junior high basketball coach, and handsome white leather occasional chairs to Coaches Croft and Gills. The radios were gifts of Mr. Biorli and Joe Bugle and the other gifts were contributed by Ellwood merchants.

Letters Awarded
Letters were then presented to the following players by Coach Croft: Henry Seitch, Evan Mattocks, Robert Tammara, Harry Hughes, Nick Dudick, Bob Ross, C. McDaniel, H. Myers, D. Faroni, V. Taylor, E. Presto, C. Wolfe, J. Blaine, J. Dunning, A. Pishioneri, Paul Cartwright, Darie Morrison, B. Robbins, N. DeCaria, T. Reine, R. Shave, J. Matrangol, C. Lordo and C. Frisk, a manager, and Walter Biego, who aided the coaches throughout the season.

"Hank" Day, coach of Farrell high school, scheduled as one of the main speakers, informed Mr. Biorli at 6 o'clock that he had started to Ellwood but because of the extremely icy condition of the road had turned back.

The evening's entertainment featured banjo and accordion playing and singing by the Madison family. They played with a great deal of skill and won much applause. In giving some of the players to sing, Al Pishioneri and Walter Biego "stole the show" as the each sang two popular songs, the latter doing a yodeling number.

To complete the already full program, motion pictures of leading college football games were shown as was a musical sketch.

From beginning to end, the banquet and program was a decided success and that success is due to Andy Biorli, who "called the signals and carried the ball." Sponsoring the banquet with Mr. Biorli as general chairman was a most commendable gesture on the part of the Lions club which is taking its place among the other fine civic organizations of the community.

Neither Beaver Falls nor Ellwood has been successful in the pre-league games, with the former winning only two out of six games and Ellwood only one out of five. The valley team is about equal with Ellwood in size. They have a fast and aggressive attack that will require the best from the Newtonmen, who are going to exhibit a new type of game tonight.

Heider and Campbell will officiate at the main game and Joe Navolio will handle the Reserve contest.

He was a member of the P. H. C. Lodge, and the V. F. W. Post, having been a Spanish-American War veteran. Mr. Stevenson was steward of the Eagles club and had a wide circle of friends.

His wife, Mrs. Suzanne Stevenson, survives as do: One son, Charles R. Stevenson, Ellwood, one brother, Oliver Stevenson, New Castle; and one sister, Mrs. Fred Davidson, Wampum.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete and will be announced.

Annual Cookie Day Planned By Society

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 10.—One hundred years' work in India was reviewed at the monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary society held last night at the Trinity Lutheran church with 25 members in attendance.

The Lutheran church is making preparations for the observance of this anniversary in India, which is now the largest and strongest mission field of the church.

Mrs. A. C. Holleran made a complete report of contributions to the Inner-Mission society in Pittsburgh. This year's donations were the largest and most substantial yet reported.

Following their annual custom of 12 years, the society will have cookie day for the orphan homes at Zelenople and Bethesda at Greenville on Valentine day. There are some 250 children at the two homes.

A week of self denial and prayer for missions was planned for March 3 to 7, the first full week of Lent.

During the social hour, a tempting lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. George Garmon and Mrs. Harry Gabler.

Thursday, February 13 is the date of the next meeting.

William J. Mecklem To Be Buried Sunday

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 10.—William J. Mecklem, aged 70 years, senior partner in the firm of Mecklem Brothers Lumber company, Monaca, and a well-known Beaver Falls resident, died suddenly on Wednesday evening at his home in Center township.

He had been in ailing health for some time, but his death came unexpectedly following a heart attack.

Mr. Mecklem was a member of the I. O. O. F. lodge, the Monaca Junior O. U. A. M., and the Center Township grange.

A son of Mathias and Mary Mecklem, he was born in North Sewickley township.

He is survived by his wife; one son, Roy Mecklem, Monaca; one daughter, Mrs. Howard Ridgeway, Beaver Falls; one brother, Lester O. Mecklem; one sister, Mrs. David L. Shanon, both of Rochester, and one step-daughter, Mrs. John Porter, Beaver. A number of relatives reside in the Ellwood vicinity.

Friends will be received at the Roy Mecklem home, 1214 Atlantic avenue, Monaca. Funeral services will be held on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Monaca Methodist church. Interment will be made in the Union cemetery.

Letters Awarded
Letters were then presented to the following players by Coach Croft: Henry Seitch, Evan Mattocks, Robert Tammara, Harry Hughes, Nick Dudick, Bob Ross, C. McDaniel, H. Myers, D. Faroni, V. Taylor, E. Presto, C. Wolfe, J. Blaine, J. Dunning, A. Pishioneri, Paul Cartwright, Darie Morrison, B. Robbins, N. DeCaria, T. Reine, R. Shave, J. Matrangol, C. Lordo and C. Frisk, a manager, and Walter Biego, who aided the coaches throughout the season.

"Hank" Day, coach of Farrell high school, scheduled as one of the main speakers, informed Mr. Biorli at 6 o'clock that he had started to Ellwood but because of the extremely icy condition of the road had turned back.

The evening's entertainment featured banjo and accordion playing and singing by the Madison family. They played with a great deal of skill and won much applause. In giving some of the players to sing, Al Pishioneri and Walter Biego "stole the show" as the each sang two popular songs, the latter doing a yodeling number.

To complete the already full program, motion pictures of leading college football games were shown as was a musical sketch.

From beginning to end, the banquet and program was a decided success and that success is due to Andy Biorli, who "called the signals and carried the ball." Sponsoring the banquet with Mr. Biorli as general chairman was a most commendable gesture on the part of the Lions club which is taking its place among the other fine civic organizations of the community.

Neither Beaver Falls nor Ellwood has been successful in the pre-league games, with the former winning only two out of six games and Ellwood only one out of five. The valley team is about equal with Ellwood in size. They have a fast and aggressive attack that will require the best from the Newtonmen, who are going to exhibit a new type of game tonight.

Heider and Campbell will officiate at the main game and Joe Navolio will handle the Reserve contest.

He was a member of the P. H. C. Lodge, and the V. F. W. Post, having been a Spanish-American War veteran. Mr. Stevenson was steward of the Eagles club and had a wide circle of friends.

His wife, Mrs. Suzanne Stevenson, survives as do: One son, Charles R. Stevenson, Ellwood, one brother, Oliver Stevenson, New Castle; and one sister, Mrs. Fred Davidson, Wampum.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete and will be announced.

Annual Cookie Day Planned By Society

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 10.—One hundred years' work in India was reviewed at the monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary society held last night at the Trinity Lutheran church with 25 members in attendance.

The Lutheran church is making preparations for the observance of this anniversary in India, which is now the largest and strongest mission field of the church.

Mrs. A. C. Holleran made a complete report of contributions to the Inner-Mission society in Pittsburgh. This year's donations were the largest and most substantial yet reported.

Following their annual custom of 12 years, the society will have cookie day for the orphan homes at Zelenople and Bethesda at Greenville on Valentine day. There are some 250 children at the two homes.

A week of self denial and prayer for missions was planned for March 3 to 7, the first full week of Lent.

During the social hour, a tempting lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. George Garmon and Mrs. Harry Gabler.

Thursday, February 13 is the date of the next meeting.

Parking Meters May Be Installed

Ellwood Council Takes First Step To Provide For Meters

OTHER ACTION AT COUNCIL SESSION

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 10.—Parking meters will apparently be installed in Ellwood City during the coming year as council last night passed a motion that an ordinance calling for the installation of meters be prepared. The motion received a 7 to 3 favorable vote.

In keeping with the state requirement, the 1941 budget was presented prior to January 15 and will be studied by members before final adoption in March. The budget is based on the present rate of 7½ mills but various changes may be made requiring an increase or decrease in the millage.

No action was taken upon the matter of electing a new fire chief but it was agreed to have the secretary advertise for applications. The need of a new ladder truck was discussed and referred to the fire committee.

Bids for radio equipment and new police cars were opened and referred to the police committee and boro manager for a report. There were three bids ranging from $1,732 to $2,473. Councilman Bauder suggested that the equipment be bought by contributions from the local merchants, who will consider the matter at their meeting on Monday night.

A motion to have Officer Kirkpatrick replace Officer Ricer as night lieutenant lost by a 5 to 5 vote. A recommendation that the five temporary officers appointed some months ago by the burgess be placed on the force permanently also lost. A. J. Howell suggested that applications from local men be considered. It was finally agreed to delay all action until the next meeting.

The approval of the W. P. A. sewing project for another year was granted. About $1225 is required per month for the purchase of goods, buttons and upkeep of machines.

An injury claim was presented by Attorney James Keller for Mrs. Verna Pasten said to have been injured in a fall on defective sidewalk between Fifth and Sixth streets and was referred to the street committee for investigation.

Many street ordinances were passed, among them being the second reading of the ordinance for the building of a recreation dam in the Connoquessing creek. An ordinance will be prepared requiring the securing of a permit from the boro for any construction work stating the time of beginning and completion and the cost. It is being required primarily to record the growth of the city.

Harry Caplan was appointed to the finance committee and J. C. Boyd to the police committee.

Tax collection amounted to $1215 for 1938; $189 for 1939; and $775 for 1940.

Total fines, costs, and forfeits were listed at $110.

Contagious diseases were listed at 37 of chicken pox; 4 of scarlet fever and 1 of whooping cough.

Mr. Howell was instructed to look into a suitable site for a new garage for city equipment, with a railroad siding being necessary.

Birthdays Honored By Pythian Chiefs

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 10.—Past Chiefs of the Pythian Sisters Lodge were pleasantly welcomed last evening at the home of Mrs. Ella Klumensmith, Hazel avenue, with eighteen members in attendance.

Lovely birthday gifts were presented to Mrs. Iva Garwig, Mrs. Agnes Shanon and Mrs. Hazel Fetterman. Bingo prize winners were Mrs. Catherine McKim and Mrs. Mae Pennick and Mrs. Cora Snare and Mrs. Hazel Fetterman won the five hundred prizes.

Associate hostesses were Mrs. Thelma Yoho, Mrs. Ida Wehman, Mrs. Blanch Cleary and Mrs. Garwig and they aided in serving a dainty lunch.

Members were invited to meet again on Thursday, February 13, at the home of Mrs. Julia Buquo, Line avenue.

Have lamb chops cut 1 1/2 to 2 inches thick. Have shoulder bone removed and a pocket cut each way from the center of the cavity. Combine bread crumbs with chopped mushrooms and grated onion. Season with salt and pepper and moisten with butter and mushroom stock. Fill cavity in chops with dressing. Place in a baking pan and cook covered in a slow oven, about 1 1/2 hours. Remove cover last 15 minutes of cooking to brown chops.
